"Sunny's Eat Place" Opens for Business

By: Kala Hazelhoff

Richard and Suntheary Hamm moved to Canton a couple of years ago. The couple was looking for a place all over the country to buy a restaurant and call home. Toward the end of Covid they had gone to New England to buy a restaurant, but the tenants had not moved out yet with the housing market the way it was. So, the couple headed back to South Dakota, where Hamm was working at a hunting lodge north of Kimball, SD. They soon started looking at the Sioux Falls area they had fallen in love with for a place and they found themselves in Canton after purchasing the "Garden of Eat'n" building. If you have driven through the stoplight in Canton recently, you may have noticed a new trailer parked at this location.

"Sunny's Eat Place" features Neapolitan pizza and baked goods made from scratch such as: jumbo muffins and cinnamon rolls for those late breakfast goers. The truck also features hot dogs, sausage sandwiches with meat from Hudson Meats, homemade rolls, sandwiches, and meats for pizza and sandwiches made with meat slow cooked on the Traeger grill. It takes three days to make the pizza dough, while using the best ingredients for the pizza: Italian tomatoes, cheese from a Wisconsin company, and whole milk. The pizza is worth the extra money for the best ingredients. Hamm bakes it at 800-900 degrees, taking a minute to a minute and a half to cook one pizza.

Richard and Suntheary Hamm stand out front of their food truck. They started serving their made from scratch goods last week. Hamm's plan to have the food truck open Monday, Tuesday, Thursday, Friday and Saturday from 9:30 a.m. until 2:30 or until their pizza dough sells out for the day.

Hamm wanted to make a better-quality pizza for the area, and since Pizza Ranch closed, they decided to open the food truck and help to fill the pizza sized shape that is missing from many locals' hearts.

There were some missing pieces left before they could open as a restaurant in the Garden building, so they decided to stay here in town with the food truck. They love the small town feel of Canton and how friendly everyone has been. Sunny's is doing a lot of flexible things right now, and they have had steady business with a great reception from the town. Hamm remarked that it makes him want to go to work and have fun. That it is starting to be more enjoyable now, instead of working for a big hotel, cruise line, or casino. He is also happy to be able to go home and sleep in his own bed at the end of the day.

Two pizza ovens are located at the far end of the food trailer. These ovens cook the pizza at a high temperature so it takes less time to bake.

Another Guaranteed Year of Golf! South Dakota Parks & Wildlife Foundation Extends Spring Creek's Lease for the 2025 Golf Season

By Virginia Olson

There is good news and cause for celebration for Spring Creek golfers – at least for another year. The South Dakota Parks & Wildlife Foundation (SDPWF) has extended the Spring Creek Country Club lease for its golf course through 2025. The lease was set to expire at the end of the 2024 golf season. With all parties in agreement, Spring Creek Country Club shareholders agreed to the new lease extension.

SDPWF, who owns the Spring Creek property, is a South Dakota non-profit. It was created in 1985 by the South Dakota Game, Fish & Parks (SDGFP) for the purpose of fundraising for the state agency as well as preserving wildlife habitat.

SDPWF purchased the property in 2014 and has been leasing it back to Spring Creek for the last ten years. It will officially hold the title to the property when the current contract for deed is satisfied in October of 2024. The upcoming lease expiration left Spring Creek golfers and neighbors asking: "What's next?"

As for now, the SDPWF plans for a one-year lease are not firmly set in stone leaving open the option of extending it through the 2026 season.

"Confirmation of this decision will be given by Jan. 31, 2025, allowing Spring Creek time to manage their own preparations for the 2026 season," says Kristina Coby, Executive Director of the SDPWF.

Coby says the SDPWF is grateful that the golf course has remained open for area golfers to enjoy as the nonprofit continues its work for SDGFP.

"The SDPWF board appreciates the shareholders' willingness to operate the golf course through the 2025 golf season. We, as a Foundation, will continue to work with SDGFP to enhance outdoor recreation in a way that aligns with their mission."

HISTORY REVISITED

By Gaynor Johnson

For this weeks column I was thinking about taking a look back at some other significant flooding the Canton area received over the decades. The more I thought about this the more I realized that maybe the last thing you want to read about now is high water, flooded homes, damaged roads and rescues involving people caught off guard by way too much rain and no way to reach higher ground. So, that's what I will be doing as I write this on July 3, 14 days after all that June rain began to fall.

We're still trying to figure out the best way to have two music acts perform that we had to cancel for the open air market at Jack Fox Park. Right now it looks like Steven Clint will be performing on Thursday, August 1, opening for High Horse who will be a featured act at the Sioux River Folk Festival.

I'm still waiting to hear back from Rick Stoops and Keven Vermillion to see if they can open for Bill Peterson and the Wheel House Band this Thursday, July 11. I guess the best way to find out is to show up and maybe catch two great South Dakota acts instead of just one. Either way it will be great to see the park filled with people, vendors, a food truck and the sound of music bouncing off the north wall of the courthouse.

I hope you are all doing ok and that things are beginning to return to some kind of normal. I know for some it will be kind of normal, it will be much longer but you'll get there eventually. Canton has had to bounce back from catastrophic events throughout it's long history and we will again. Compared to Rock Valley and other towns in the tri-state area, we were pretty lucky and my heart goes out to all those souls that lost everything. So, "keep on the sunny side- always on the sunny side," as that old song goes. Happy reading as we take a look at Cruisin Cuisine.

Cruisin Cuisine-Drive-Ins of Sioux Falls

Published in 2009 by the Siouxland Heritage Museums
Ray's Drive-Inn... where the west begins

Ray Starks worked in the restaurant business for much of his life. He started working at the Nickel Plate, in downtown Sioux Falls in the 1930s and later ran Ray's Coffee House on the 100 block of South Main Avenue. In the late 1940s he was manager of Ray's Drive-Inn, at 1312 W. 12th Street.

In 1951, Ray built a new 24 hour drive-in at 2400 West 12th Street. According to his son, Ken Starks, many of Ray's friends told him that he was "crazy to build a drive-in way out there because Sioux Falls wouldn't develop that far west." Much of the area near 12th Street and Kiwanis Avenue was considered swamp land, and the rest was cornfield. Besides a few nightclubs further west along 12th Street, Kiwanis Avenue was only a gravel road leading people to West Sioux, a small community with a hardware store, gas station, and grocery store. In the early 1950, Starks also built Ray's Milky Way on the land adjacent to his drive-in restaurant. (That building still stands and has been known as the B & G Milky Way since 1956.) Later, Ray opened the Western Drive-Inn, which operated out of the same building as Jake & Don's 66 Gas Station further west on 12th Street.

Ray's was typical of many of the drive-ins in Sioux Falls, having only a few spots to eat inside with most customers utilizing the carhops and curbside service. Also common among drive-ins was the later addition of more interior seating. In the case of Ray's Drive-Inn, this involved an addition to the front of the building. This newly expanded dining room was known as the Comanche Room. It had a distinctly "old west" theme. The walls were covered with paintings of Canadian geese, bison, and the Great Plains. The booths were covered with vinyl that looked like Pinto horse hide.

At the rear of the building was a raised DJ booth that resembled a large microphone. Ray Starks was a local Country-Western star, known as "Ramblin' Ray" and was friends with many of the musicians that traveled through town. Occasionally, these musicians would DJ at Ray's. The musicians did not play live at the drive-in because of their contracts, however having them serve as guest DJ was still quite an attraction.

In 1958, Starks and his son went to a restaurant convention and learned improved methods of preparing fried chicken. The process involved several steps, which Ken Starks later streamlined. Ray's chicken became known as "Ray's Golden Crust Chicken" and until recently could still be enjoyed at Chikadily's Restaurant in Pierre, SD.

Caitlin Clark has been making history as she contends on the basketball court. Although she did not make the women's Olympic team this year, she continues to contend for a spot there 4 years from now. She contends for wins for her team and contends for rankings and records within women's basketball. She is definitely a competitive contender.

The Oxford Language Dictionary tells us that the word contend can mean to "engage in a competition or campaign in order to win or achieve." That definition definitely describes Clark. But there is another definition for "contend" found in that same dictionary: "to assert something as a position in an argument."

In the Bible we find this statement: "Beloved, while I was making every effort to write you about our common salvation, I felt the necessity to write to you appealing that you contend earnestly for the faith which was once for all delivered to the saints." (Jude 1:3)

When we as Christians contend for the faith, we are not shooting baskets, but we are asserting our position. We are arguing for our faith. In the very next verse, Jude points out that ungodly people pervert God's grace and instead promote sensuality. In other words, they are using God's grace as an excuse to sin. He then points out that as they are doing this, they are denying that our Lord Jesus Christ is their master.

As Christians, our faith is based on Jesus Christ. We understand that he is God and that he is our authority. We recognize that Jesus is our master. This understanding is key whenever someone tries to convince us that we should just accept sin.

Imagine if someone were encouraging you to steal ice cream. They argue that the ice cream would taste so good. They also argue that although stealing is technically wrong, Jesus is very forgiving. Thus they are distorting his grace to encourage sin.

They might also argue that they took a vote and all their friends think that stealing ice cream is no big deal. Or perhaps they might argue that in some places sealing ice cream is socially acceptable. They might even argue that as long as the strongest or most influential people encourage the stealing of ice cream, then it is okay. They are thus arguing that there should be a different master for right and wrong other than God.

When we contend for the faith we are saying that Jesus is God and Jesus is the master. Therefore we look to him and the Bible for determining what is right or wrong. We are asserting our position and making our argument that God is the authority. We are contending for the faith.

We need more people with the courage to say that God is right and that God has the authority to tell us what to do. If we have really believed in Jesus Christ and we really view him as our master, why wouldn't we say that he has the right to tell us what to do? Of course those who reject Jesus will not care what he tells them. That is understandable, but when someone claims to be a Christian they should welcome God's authority in their life. Sadly too many Christians are not even willing to contend for what God says, let alone listen to it. I have to ask, "are they contenders or pretenders?"

If you have really believed in Jesus, then start to take him seriously. Argue for his position as you live it out in your life. Realize that stealing ice cream is wrong and be bold to say so.

Contending for the faith means that as a Christian you recognize that morality is based on God's authority. If you are a Christian, contend for the faith, and live like you are contending for it. www.southtownchurch.com

A Celebration of Freedom

By: Governor Kristi Noem
July 5, 2024

The Fourth of July has always been a special day to me. It's our nation's birthday, of course. But it's also the day that my husband, Bryon, proposed.

On July 4th, 1991, I told a group of kiddos that I would haul them and their horses to the local parade. I picked up the kids, helped polish their horses, and led them through the parade route. By the end of the day, I was exhausted.

I wanted to clean up and enjoy a night at home after my long day. However, Bryon insisted on taking me out to dinner and going on his grandpa's boat to watch the fireworks.

I was cold and miserable on that boat. The fireworks began, and when I turned around, Bryon was on one knee. "Kristi, will you marry me?" he asked.

I was shocked and responded with the first thing that came to mind: "Did...you ask my dad?"

That day was certainly a day of celebration for Bryon and me! And the Fourth of July is a day for all Americans to celebrate. It's a day that epitomizes Freedom and unity.

Nearly 250 years ago, our Founding Fathers took unprecedented action to declare independence from unwarranted British authority and a tyrannical king. They took on the strongest military in the world with nothing but personal muskets and rifles. And they gave us the greatest gift in human history – a Republic where the people rule.

Just as our forefathers worked tirelessly to create a better future, we too must continue to strive for liberty and uphold the values that make South Dakota and America great. On July 1st, several bills that I prioritized for the people of South Dakota this past legislative session finally became law!

One of these laws is crucial to protecting our state's precious ag land. Agriculture is the backbone of South Dakota's economy, but evil foreign governments are attempting to control land across our nation. But not in South Dakota – not on my watch. By safeguarding our land, we are preserving our heritage and securing our future.

I further recognize that our Freedom extends to all Americans. So, I signed a bill that clearly defines antisemitism and helps ensure the safety of Jewish people in our state. Antisemitism has no place in South Dakota, and this law sends a clear message that we stand united against antisemitic hate.

I am also proud of the efforts we have made to give individuals with criminal histories a second chance. It is crucial to provide individuals with the opportunity to rebuild their lives and support their families after serving their sentences. People who are ready to reenter society will now be able to provide for their families and add value to our workforce.

Finally, our kids are the future. And our teachers are the ones we trust to help them achieve that future. We ensured that our teachers will receive adequate pay for the important work they do. We are empowering educators to inspire the next generation of citizens with the ideals of democracy and independence.

As we celebrate our nation's birthday this Fourth of July, let us remember what America was founded on – Freedom. This session's legislative successes are a testament to our commitment to making South Dakota a model for Freedom.

Freedom is something we cannot take for granted. It's something we must fight to uphold. As Ben Franklin famously said after signing the Declaration of Independence on that fateful 4th of July almost 250 years ago, "We must all hang together, or, most assuredly, we will all hang separately."

Let us, like our Founding Fathers, work together to secure a future for the next generation. Happy Fourth of July, South Dakota! God bless you all, and God bless the United States of America.

Canton Chamber of Commerce brings you Canton's 13th Annual Fishing Derby!

Sunday, June 22 • 12-4:00 p.m.
Lake Alvin Ages 1-16

Registration begins at noon.
Free bait provided. Please bring your own poles.

Prizes awarded for: Longest fish in inches;
Smallest fish in inches; Most fish caught in inches

Sponsored by Canton Chamber of Commerce

This was a big event for kids to enjoy, in this fishing contest at Lake Alvin in 2008. All kids 5 and up were eligible.

This is a lot kids on the shore getting started. This was one event I helped with for several years. We were not to help them catch a fish, but did teach them the basics of tying on hooks and using worms for bait. We had many kids whose mothers brought them and we had to teach the kids from the very beginning basics.

We had 75 children fishing and some of them went down below the dam to fish down there. Over 70 fish were caught down below on the bottom of the spillway.

This is Jonathon Kriese, age 5, fishing off the dock up on top. Bullheads, Carp and some sunfish were caught.

This is little Zada Walker, age 6, also fishing off the dock up above the south side. Many kids got really excited on catching the 1st fish.

A More Perfect Union

By Rep. Dusty Johnson

BIG Update

July 4 marks 268 years of American pride and patriotism. As we celebrate by going to local parades, hosting a cookout, or watching the fireworks, we remember our greatest values: freedom, faith, and family. Our Founding Fathers shaped our nation with a vision to uphold these ideals and I aim to do the same in Congress to move America towards a more perfect union.

BIG Idea

When deciding how to improve the intersection of I-29 and 41st Street in Sioux Falls, the South Dakota Department of Transportation (SDDOT) considered several options before choosing the diverging diamond interchange. SDDOT found it improves safety and traffic flow and is the least expensive build option. This is the first of its kind in Sioux Falls. The completion of the interchange is the result of incredible partnership between federal, state, and local governments to improve our infrastructure.

BIG News

For forty years, a Supreme Court ruling often referred to as "Chevron deference" has allowed unelected bureaucrats in executive agencies to interpret laws as they see fit – leading to overreaching and burdensome climate regulations, unconstitutional student debt cancelation, harmful government mandates, and more. This has created a bloated administrative state which has grown far beyond the size the Founding Fathers intended.

Last week, the Supreme Court overruled the Chevron decision, restoring the power of the legislative branch back to Congress. With this ruling, Congress must be more specific in legislating, so bills can be clearly interpreted by the executive and judicial branches. This decision strengthens the Constitution's checks and balances in our government and ends the whiplash that is the result of shifting goalposts between each presidential administration. I look forward to legislating in this new environment, in which Congress truly holds the power to legislate.

Talk to your family about wealth transfer

Are you anticipating an inheritance someday? If so, you may want to discuss it with your parents or other family members who may be leaving you the assets — because early, open communication will benefit everyone involved.

However, many people are reluctant to have these conversations. More than a third of Americans do not plan on discussing a transfer of wealth with their families, according to a recent study by Edward Jones in partnership with NEXT 360 Partners and Morning Consult. And the same study found that only about a quarter of Americans have actually discussed generational wealth transfer with their families.

Perhaps this low level of communication is not surprising — clearly, talking about wealth transfer and estate plans can be emotional. But having these discussions is important, for several reasons:

- Strengthening family bonds – Generational wealth transfer shouldn't be seen simply as a transactional event. By discussing your parents' plans and wishes, and your own expectations, you can build a sense of unity and shared purpose. And you can develop a common philosophy about how your family's legacy goals will be carried forward through the succeeding generations.
- Avoiding unpleasant surprises – If you or other family members are expecting a certain inheritance and things turn out differently, disappointment and bad feelings may occur. But this can be avoided by having a discussion beforehand that clearly outlines your parents' intentions. You still may not agree with them, but at least you'll know what to expect — and you won't make the mistake of acting in advance on any assumptions about what you'll inherit.
- Developing appropriate strategies – Passing on wealth to a new generation as part of an overall estate plan can be more complex than you might think. Are your parents using tax-smart strategies? Would they benefit from establishing a living trust? Are the beneficiary designations on their retirement accounts and life insurance policies accurate and up to date? If you suspect your parents may not have properly addressed these issues, you may want to bring up the benefits of working with an estate-planning attorney and a tax advisor.

- Protecting against incapacitation – Many people go through their senior years with few, if any, physical or mental impairments. But there are no guarantees. If one or both of your parents were to become incapacitated and unable to handle their financial affairs, it could cause serious problems with their wealth transfer and estate-planning goals. But if you can discuss your parents' plans with them while they are healthy and alert, you can encourage them to take the proper steps, such as reviewing outdated estate-planning documents and designating you or another family member as power of attorney to make health care and financial decisions on their behalf should they become incapacitated.

While the benefits of having wealth-transfer and estate-planning discussions are clear, starting the conversations can be tricky. You need to show that you want to initiate these talks because you're concerned that proper plans need to be in place and understood by everyone involved. If you have a good relationship with your parents, you should be able to start these conversations, but you'll still need to be sensitive when bringing up the subject.

One final word: Estate plans can take some time to develop — so, the sooner you have these discussions, the better.

Edward Jones, its employees and financial advisors are not estate planners and cannot provide tax or legal advice. You should consult your estate-planning attorney or qualified tax advisor regarding your situation.

Sunny's Eat Place

Hamm was unsure about where he wanted to go with a culinary degree in the 1980s-1990s, and as he went through the baking and pastry program after he graduated culinary school, he narrowed down his future then while realizing there was little competition in that line of work. He is a pastry chef by trade. He is a graduate from Johnson Wales University in Rhode Island for Pastries, Confectionery school in Stockholm, Sweden, Cordon Bleu in Paris where he graduated with Honors, and culinary school outside Chicago. He then worked in Europe for a little bit of time and worked as the Corporate Pastry Chef for the Holland America cruise ship line for six years. While doing that he oversaw thirteen different ships which had a diversified crew of around 360 individuals. The cruise ships are 1200 passenger ships, where they made all the pastries and bakery items from scratch. Hamm also spent time working with Hyatt hotels, as a private chef, and spent some time making food behind the scenes on the Food Network at their studio they had in downtown Denver.

Now that Hamm just turned sixty, his career is slowing down in "a good way." He is incredibly happy about the change from the corporate hotel setting. His wife is originally from Cambodia, with a background in financials, and is enjoying helping her husband cook for the food truck.

Sunny's is set to be open Monday, Tuesday, Thursday, Friday, and Saturday from 9:30 am to 2:30 pm. Please check their Facebook for updates until they get the feel of daily operations.

Hamm makes his dough each morning by hand to get the perfect consistency. The dough then has to sit and let the yeast do its job. It takes a total of three days to make the delicious pizza dough. "It is hard to predict how many I will sell in three days for now," said Hamm, "once the dough is gone for the day, we can't make any more pizzas."

Mental Health Memo

Supporting A Loved One Through Recovery

About the Author: Christine Graves, BSN, RN, works as a Charge Nurse at the Human Services Center (HSC) and serves the patients of the Gateway Treatment Program. She earned Bachelor of Science degrees in Nursing and Psychology from the University of South Dakota. Chris enjoys spending time with her family and friends, walking, and spending time outdoors.

Chances are you probably know someone who has been affected by addiction. With over 48 million people being diagnosed with a substance use disorder in 2022 (U.S. Substance Abuse and Mental Health Services Administration, 2022 National Survey Drug Use and Health Annual Report), anyone can suffer from addiction at any time during their life. This may be a family member, co-worker, friend, or neighbor. The term recovery refers to the process where an individual has abstained from the use of drugs or alcohol to improve their overall health and wellness. Below are some tips for you to help an individual achieve a better life and for you to understand more fully how the supports offered to a loved one in recovery can positively impact their journey.

Educate Yourself: Addiction

is a chronic disease where you do not have control over doing, taking, or using something to the point where it could be harmful. Addiction is typically classified as using drugs or alcohol; however, shopping, food, screen time, and gambling addictions are common, as well. Being able to recognize that addiction is a life-long disease that may require different treatment methods such as counseling and medications. Encouragement/support is also beneficial as you support an individual you love in recovery.

Be Patient: It is a rare person who can change their behavior overnight. In early recovery, they may still make poor decisions. Healing and growth will take time and discipline. If setbacks and relapses with drugs and alcohol occur, continue to show love, concern, and support. Remember that they are building a new life that is unfamiliar to them.

Listen: People who are in recovery have a lot of appointments and meetings to attend. Despite being around others who are in recovery, they may feel lonely and overwhelmed at times. Being present and engaged in conversation with them as they share information with you is an important part of being supportive. Paraphrasing what they are telling you also shows them that you are actively listening.

Know the Signs of Relapse: The definition of relapse is the use of drugs or alcohol after a period of not using drugs or alcohol. Relapse happens frequently, with up to 40% to 60% of individuals relapsing within 30 days of leaving an inpatient treatment program, and up to 85% of individuals relapsing within the first year of recovery (National Institutes of Health). Relapsing can be an important experience for individuals, as it typically solidifies their commitment to recovery. Although everyone is different, knowing the signs of relapse can help prompt them to seek professional help to get them back on track. Some warning signs include associating with persons with whom or places at which prior use took place, suspicious changes in mood and behavior, or glamorizing the past and prior substance use.

Encourage New and Healthy Activities: One of the hardest things for those in early recovery is finding activities that do not involve drugs or alcohol. Whether it be eating healthy, getting enough sleep, physical exercise, or practicing open and honest communication, you can show support by practicing these healthy habits yourself. Not only do these activities improve your overall health and wellness, but it can also be a source of bonding and healing between you and the person in recovery.

Find Your Own Support: Supporting a loved one in recovery can take a toll on your own mental and physical health. Practicing self-care is not only an important part for everyday life, but it also demonstrates recovery related behaviors to the person in recovery. Support groups, such as Al-Anon and Alateen, are specific to those whose lives have been affected by someone else's drinking. SMART Recovery is another evidence-informed support group for those who have been touched by addiction.

In conclusion, addiction is a common condition that can affect anyone. There are several different ways that you can support an individual who is in recovery. If you or someone you love is suffering from addiction, call, text, or chat 988 to connect with local professionals at the Helpline Center.

THE COMMUNITY OF CANTON THANKS YOU

The Sioux Valley News knows in tough times the community of Canton bands together and takes care of each other. The citizens of Canton displayed the true meaning of community, below you will find thanks from throughout the Sioux Valley.

The Ripleys extend a huge, appreciative THANK YOU to our amazing friends, work crews, and son Will for ALL the physical help, emotional support/offerings to help, and meals during our week long watery time of need. We are blessed!
John and Linda Ripley

To our Canton community who selflessly worked many hours putting sandbags together to endlessly delivering them and building the sand walls for us and to the friends who came helped us get Sheetrock, carpet out and carry other items out. Thank you from the bottom of our hearts!! There are too many to list! We live in an amazing community!
The Wiersma house~

Kristi Keiser for placing a phone call to get us sandbags and checking on us when you got into town.
Michael Engle & Donald Hermanson for delivering and unloading the sandbags.
Our neighbors, David and Tiffany, Frank and Meagan, James and Diane and Randy. We appreciate everyone that checked in and helped anyway they could!!!
Geno and Teisha Hart

I personally would like to Thank Bob and Erin Gard for organizing/managing the cleanup list so we were as efficient as we were. Without their efforts in managing the crew we wouldn't have been able to complete the task in 2 days.
Kris York

A special thank you to Chelsea and Jason. Without their help I would still be floundering.

I would like to thank all the angels that helped me over the weekend. All of you were such a blessing.
17 Park Lane

From the bottom of my heart I would like to say THANK YOU to the following people who were my angels during the flood. They all personify the caring of Canton's residents.

- Blessings to all, Kathleen Dowdle.
- Dustin Nelson for thankfully finding the water in my basement the first night of the rain. He checked the basement, as well as outside, for problem areas and moved items out of harms way. Later that evening he even brought a dehumidifier and set it up in the basement!
  - My granddaughter, Savannah, and husband, Jason Ketterling, for checking on me every day!
  - Barb Fossum for calling to see if I was okay, then coming over to sweep the water down the basement drain. She did this even though she was having flood damage of her own!
  - Finally, for the many kind volunteers with the Canton boys and girls wrestling teams, who moved all my totes from the basement to my garage.

Marsha Stensland would like to thank Nick and Aiden Stubson and Gaynor Johnson for moving some heavy items out of her basement. Their help was much appreciated.

Many thanks for Denise, Becky, Christa, Devin, Charlie Ann, Raider, & Sam for getting the water from my basement, Amy for picking up the cleaning supplies for me, Bomgaars for the cleaning supplies, all the people who picked up the wet stuff and hauled it away, the people from Good News Church for bring us lunch. Thank you all for your help, the Lord bless you.
Our town is full of angels.
Fran

It is with heartfelt gratitude that we share this thank-you note to Bethany Reformed Church and the community of Canton. Bob and I are very grateful for the assistance from Pastor Kevin and all of the congregation, adults and children, who helped us clean out our basement of items that needed to be disposed of. And we are grateful to the Fire Department for the meal that was provided for us and the cleaning supplies to help us move forward. Thank you so much.
Bob and Pat Van Roekel

Thank you, Tri-State Ready Mix, for the supplies and to any person, big or small, who gave their time to fill, tie, haul, and place sandbags!
Thank you to the people who made POSITIVE and INFORMATIVE posts on the various community Facebook pages. Information is power. Praise and thanks to all who kept things on the up-and-up to help others in need.
Kristin Hilt

The Ross family would like to thank Todd Trumm Dawn Kranz and Lukas Bonje for coming to help us pull out our carpet and padding out of our basement
Thank you ~ Patrick Ross

Thank you to Daryl and Beth Feilmeier for your help, guidance, support, and love as we navigate through this disaster. Daryl, a million thanks for being there through every disgusting step of the way as we have gutted and cleaned! Thank you to Dawn, The Ancells- Stacy, Matt, & Zeek, and Chris for helping haul out the soggy mess! We are forever grateful for all of you!!
Kate and Shaun Feilmeier

Big thank you to all the nice people who came to help Pearl and I clean up after the flood.
Charlie Hilt

We want to say a huge thank you to Todd, Laura, and Jack Trumm and all of Jack's friends that, like angels, appeared in our driveway Friday morning after the flood willing to help in any way. Also thank you to Marlena Brunsting, Desi Roseland and Abby and Lance Roseland for all of your help! Thank you also to Teri Kayl and Tom Rops for their sump pump installation skills. A shout to all of the crew at Canton Home & Farm for their help with our many questions. It truly takes a village and we are ever grateful to all of our wonderful friends & family members.
Kristi Carpenter

Thank you to the Fairview rescue department, friends and family.
Allison and Robin Minor

To those whose names we know and to those whose names we don't know. We would like to express our gratitude, appreciation and thanks to the Canton community for all the help and support our mother received during the recent flood.

Our family felt helpless being out of the area when the floodwaters began rising. It was great relief to know that others were working to protect the home and support our mom. Thank you!

Many volunteers were friends but several were simply good people who stepped in to help. The neighborhood kids who made countless trips to move things out of the basement especially touched us! To those who filled, distributed, and removed sandbags, to those who moved furniture and hauled out wet carpet, and those who simply checked in to see if any additional work or supplies were needed- we are truly touched by your kindness!

Canton knows how to pull together during a crisis and we appreciate the can-do spirit of our hometown. Our thoughts and prayers go out to others in the community affected by this crisis.

The family of Willma Wissink, and proud C-Hawk alumni

Like so many others, we want to take a second to thank everyone that helped us in any way. Day one, Parker Swanson and Kale Ask stopped by to carry a few things out. After that, things escalated so quickly and it is such a blur. At one point, I looked around and somehow there were 20-30 people, some who I didn't even know, who were there and willing to help with whatever needed to be done. Special thanks to: Bob Gard, Whitney Gard, Autumn Ask and more from the wrestling group, Andy McCann, Rick and Jean Fossum, Dawn and Aiden Kranz, Tony, Gail and Austin Herting, Jim Folkens, Eric, Dana and Kaiden Larsgaard, Steve and Dyson Olson, Jay and Ashley Hortness, Dillon and Taylor Swanson, people from church and the city, and probably more, for helping carry everything out of our basement, tear out carpet and sheetrock, haul things away, and clean. Our neighbors, Scott and Heather Johnson for grilling for us while we were all too busy to take a break to eat. Our parents and sisters for watching the boys, helping with all the laundry that needed to be done, and for letting us stay with you while we rebuild, and all the work that you are still doing to get us back into our home.

We are humbled and so very grateful for everything. I apologize if I missed naming someone specific. Please know how much we appreciate all of you.

Andy and Molly Larsgaard
Chuck and Brenda Larsgaard

Thank you to the Canton Fire Department for all you have done during this chaos. Thank you to Zomer's for your fast response to get our equipment up and run. Thank you to Canton Home and Farm for having what we needed to move the water out of the basement. Thank you to all of our neighbors for your help. Thank you to everyone who fed us and everyone else in town. Thank you to all those who filled sandbags and those who delivered them. Thank you to those who help pick up and haul away the rubble. Thank you to everyone in the wonderful town for all you have done for this community.

C-Hawk Wrestlers travel to Wisconsin Dells for Camp

The Hawks traveled to the Wisconsin Dells to participate in the Malecek Team Camp which is a 62 team dual tournament and they finished 6-2 in the tough team competition for a 5th place finish. The wrestlers saw some very tough teams and we had a lot of wrestlers take home titles in the individual tournament and a handful of wrestlers leaving with only 1 loss or less. Coach Jeremy Swenson said they were super proud of all our wrestlers and having the opportunity to see some of our wrestlers step up from the JV and look solid in a varsity role. Some of those individuals were the reason we won some big duals.

C-Hawk wrestlers that participated were selected to compete in the All-Star Dual were: Teague Granum, Carter Kendrick, Aidan Kranz, Hunter Richmond

The following were the wrestlers placing in the individual tourney:

First Place- Bode Walker, Blaise Bentz, Landon Walker, Zach Bartels, Camdyn Ockenga, Rylan Richardson, Tasya Ockenga

Second Place- Carson Patch, Wyatt Tuntland, Chase Adam, Gunner Swenson, Tyler Lease

Third Place- Jaymison Brown

Fourth Place- Aiden Ostrom, Shane Sehr (DNP injured), Cameron Anderson, Kayden Chaulk (DNP injured), Slayton Swenson, Jase Kroger, Caden Baune, Conley Winquist

Coaches that went along to coach the boys were- Jeremy Swenson, Kyle Seibel, Michael Walker, Braden Sehr and Kellyn March.

Curtis Meendering Named Assistant Track Coach of the Year

By: Kala Hazelhoff

Curtis Meendering, teacher, and track coach in Canton, recently was awarded the "Area 2 Class A Assistant Track Coach of the Year." Everyone that is a part of the Track Coaches Association is eligible to win an award. The award is voted on by other coaches in our area that are a part of the same association.

Coach Meendering has led the C-Hawks to multiple state place winners in the shot put and discus area. He recently helped coach the first ever female State Champion in the throws.

Congratulations, Coach Meendering!

Regarding the award, this is what he had to say: "I was surprised. My phone was buzzing at 6:30, and I saw it was a group text of coworkers so I muted it, because we all know how group texts can go. About 20 minutes later my wife poked me in the arm and asked when I was going to tell her. My response was, "tell you what?" Then she held up her phone and showed me the post from the school. I said, "I guess right now." I was excited and shocked. It is an honor to be chosen by your peers for an award. I am so thankful to have such a supportive wife and family as track season can get kind of long with many late nights. I have to thank the athletes that showed up every day and worked hard to improve their throws. I also have to thank Atlanta DeJong, Jake Versteeg, Travis Kroger, Terri Ann Kroger, and Natylie Myers for helping the throwers over the years."

By Rich Beitzel

I want to start out by saying Happy 4th of July to everyone and it is a great holiday when we all thank God for our country and celebrate the USA for all it has and will do for everyone in the country. I have seen a lot of 4th celebrations from foreign countries to not even in a country but out to sea and they all had their great parts to make it a celebration to remember. While I was in Sicily I watched a fireworks display that lasted over an hour and it was fantastic because it was on a base but the local people did the show. The other one that stands out to me is the one while I was on the USS America an aircraft carrier and we were in the middle of the Indian Ocean and on the 4th they told everyone to get to an open spot so you could see the skies and in the pitch dark they shot off one of the guns filled with tracer shells that just light up the skies then shot off some candle flares and it started to glow over the ocean and over a ship and totally lit it up and that was really cool to see. I hope everyone of you had a fireworks display that you can remember or maybe just had a memorable this year that you will always remember.

This year Teresa and myself went out west and headed to Hill City to visit Chase. We went out Wednesday and got as far as Kadoka only to find out our motel we booked has been closed since last winter so luckily, we found one in town after some upset moments. Got a good nights sleep then to Wall for some darn good donuts and shopping then on to Hill City. Found our motel and then Chase's place on Thursday afternoon so we were happy to have made it. Didn't get to see any fireworks but had a good time looking around at stuff as we drove by Mt. Rushmore and Crazy Horse and thru Custer then back to Hill City to look around there. The next day Chase had to work so we went downtown and took the 1880 train down to Keystone. It has been many years since I have been on that train and it might have been back when it was first used but I enjoyed the scenery and history about our trip. Then we had some time in Keystone till the ride home and looked around and watched some guy make a statue of an eagle with his chainsaw. Well got back to the train with only 2 bags of shirts and hats but had fun. The ride back to Hill City was just as good then got back to pick up Chase and have supper at the Alpine Inn. Saturday we went golfing in Custer on a very scenic course which also means lots of stuff I can hit into or bounce off then look for the ball. It was fun for the first time and yes Chase did beat me by a bunch but it was fun then downtown for lunch. We got to see a lot of great scenery down the off beat roads and I was pretty sure we were lost but Chase said he knew where we were so I just sat back and hoped that Bigfoot wouldn't make an appearance right then. Sunday we made it home and now back to normal until the next family get together.

This is also the time we have sports camps all over the Midwest and the football team went to Missouri and the wrestlers just got back from Wisconsin and both had great times and worked hard at trying to make their teams better this next season so support these camps and if you have a team at a camp let me or the Sioux Valley News know about it when you get back and take a team picture everyone should know about it because you know they will be in the bleachers soon watching and cheering for you guys.
