Goodroads Bring “Caring Transitions” Services to Area

By: Kala Hazelhoff

Kristin and Brad Goodroad moved to the Canton area in 2008 with her retired parents. Kristin’s sister Kim, husband Russ Wentz and family, who moved here in 2007. Kristin’s dad, Chuck Kramer, passed away in March 2024. They found themselves faced with the overwhelming task of helping their mother, Janet, go through all of her and her husband’s belongings. This included Chuck’s workshop full of woodworking tools. Kristin is the oldest of four siblings, her two brothers live in Lincoln, Neb. With numerous work and life schedules to work around, it was difficult for them to offer help. Kristin stumbled upon “Caring Transitions” and felt as though this was exactly what they needed.

The new “Caring Transitions” location will provide a unique full-service approach that is an end-to-end solution, including decluttering, resettling, clean-outs, space planning, and managing estate sales and online auctions. Brad retired in 2021, after 27 years with the Sioux Falls Fire Rescue, and currently serves as the site director for “Bidwell, a Terex Brand” in Canton. After Kristin recently retired from 30 years as a Physical Therapist, along with her husband assisting her, they are becoming “Caring Transitions” owners to service the Canton and surrounding areas. Even though “Caring Transitions” has over 325 locations across the country, the closest locations to Canton were in Omaha, Neb. or Mankato, Minn.. This is a much-needed service that they are proud to offer to this area. Their local roots and firsthand experiences with life transitions make them uniquely qualified to understand and meet the needs of their community.

“We are excited to welcome Kristin and Brad Goodroad into the Caring Transitions franchise family and to strengthen and be able to continue to build up our brand presence in South Dakota,” said Ray Fabik, President of Caring Transitions. “Their dedication to serving others and their deep roots in the Midwest make them the perfect fit to lead our newest location.”

Throughout her career as a physical therapist, Kristin has always enjoyed working with seniors, listening to their stories, and making personal connections that extended beyond patient care. “I’ve always enjoyed hearing seniors’ stories and listening to them share where they’ve come from. It helped make our sessions more enjoyable and allowed me to relate to them as people, not just patients. Now, I’m excited to help seniors in a different way, easing the stress of their transitions and making a difference in their lives.” -Kristin Goodroad “Caring Transitions” is a business that caters to everyone’s specific needs, whether it is sorting, organizing, packing, or unpacking after moving, Estate sales (both online and in person), basic downsizing, and adapting the home to accommodate aging. The clients arrive in their new home with everything unpacked and put away, even with pictures hanging on the walls. This allows the client and their families to focus on grieving for the loss of a loved one while being able to spend quality time together, that is not filled with the stress and headaches of coordinating a home cleanup.

“Caring Transitions of Sioux Falls SW” will serve Yankton, North Sioux City, Mitchell, Tea, Harrisburg, Sioux Falls, Vermillion, and the surrounding areas.

There will be a ribbon cutting at the Canton Depot for “Caring Transitions” on September 26th, 2024, at noon. “Caring Transitions of Sioux Falls SW” is currently hiring part time help and say they would love to have you on their team!

Dakota Specialty Solutions Breaks Ground

By: Kala Hazelhoff

On Wednesday, August 28th, “Dakota Specialty Solutions” (DSS) had their groundbreaking event. Located on the corner of 479th Avenue and Innovation Street, once completed this site will serve as the primary warehouse and packaging plant for DSS.

“Dakota Specialty Solutions, LLC is a specialty agricultural science and chemical company that is excited to set up new operations and grow in Canton. This investment calls for a new facility and operations on a 4-acre parcel in Canton’s Industrial Park which is expected to bring around 15 new full-time jobs to the Canton community, a $4.5M capital investment, and room for expansion in future years.” Sioux Metro Growth Alliance

According to Raj Pazhinur, president of DSS, the town of Canton is a perfect fit for a small company like theirs since “we embody the same values”. Further, with significant business growth in Canada, Canton’s geographical location would be ideal to serve customers in western Canada. Although the warehouse is only 30K square feet, DSS and its affiliates are very excited about it since currently they rely solely on third parties to lease warehouse space and package their products.

POW/MIA RECOGNITION DAY

PIERRE, S.D. – Governor Kristi Noem has recognized September 20, 2024, as “POW/MIA Recognition Day to remember and honor the returned U.S. Prisoners of War (POWs) and all Americans still captured, unaccounted for, or Missing in Action (MIA).”

“Our commitment to the men and women who served our nation honorably is as strong today as it was when they answered the call to duty,” said Greg Whitlock, secretary of the South Dakota Department of Veterans Affairs. “There are still hundreds of South Dakotans who are still missing,” continued Whitlock. “Their families, friends, and communities all live with uncertainty regarding their fate. We must ensure that the search for those missing will continue.”

Currently, South Dakota has seven veterans still missing from the Vietnam War, 34 unaccounted for from the Korean War, and 310 from World War II.

“In their service to our country, former prisoners of war and those missing in action have sacrificed mightily to maintain the promise of liberty that we hold dear. POW/MIA Recognition Day gives us all a great opportunity to reaffirm our vow to never forget the courage of our nation's staunchest defenders – our POWs and MIAs. They led lives of great consequence,” concluded Whitlock.

HISTORY REVISITED

By Gaynor Johnson

For this week's column I thought I'd list the cost of certain things concerning South Dakota and this region's long history and what public officials were once paid to govern our state. For instance, back in the late 1930's if you lived in Canton, Buffalo, Milbank, etc. and were a South Dakota legislator you were paid 10¢ a mile to travel to Pierre and back. In 1902 you could buy a homestead for three dollars and some change per acre. Today you would be laughed at (or not believed) if you told someone you had just bought 320 acres of land for $1,000.

I'll be using several sources for this including A South Dakota Guide (1938), the centennial issue of The Farmer (1882-1982), a brochure published by the US Dept. of the Interior and National Park Service (1962) and the Sept./Oct. 2024 issue of South Dakota Magazine.

I had the idea to write this when I compared what our state had for total expenditures back in the late 1930's (almost $13,000,000) and what our 2023 legislature approved to spend on a new prison ($341,000,000). Luckily I found some interesting reading material during our recent Canton City-Wide Rummage Sale that really helped me put this column together.

Here are a few examples of what things cost that came from The Farmer. Celebrating 100 years of their magazine (that was once called The Northwestern Farmer) they included a few pages of old ads going back to the late 1800's:

- In 1902 the Hackney-Boynton Land Company out of St. Paul listed 320 acres for $1,000. They even offered "Free Livery to Show the Land".

- In 1906 L.S. Snyder, Crookston, MN, had 240 acres of "well improved land" in the Red River Valley for $30 an acre.

- In 1903 the Consumers Carriage and Mfg. Co. in Chicago was selling $50 buggies for $28.50 and $85 buggies for $57.50. Harnesses were selling for $8.88.

According to the United States Department of the Interior and the National Park Service, work began on Mt. Rushmore in August of 1927. Fourteen years later it was completed at a cost of $989,992.32 with the Federal Government appropriations amounting to $836,000 of the total.

The following story comes from A South Dakota Guide first published in 1938 by the SD Guide Commission compiled by the Federal Writers' Project of the Work's Progress Administration, State of SD. Happy reading as autumn begins on Sunday. May it be kind to us and linger on for awhile.

State Government

(Please keep in mind that this was written in the late 1930's)

According to the State constitution, a candidate for nomination as Governor must receive at least 35 percent of the votes cast by his party in the primary; otherwise the nominee is decided on by a caucus, which quite often has nominated some candidate other than the one receiving the highest number of votes. The salary of the Governor, $3,000 a year, is the lowest paid to any State Executive in the Union.

The State has a bicameral Legislature, reduced in 1937 to 75 representatives and 35 senators, elected every two years. They convene at Pierre on the first Monday after the first Tuesday in January of odd-numbered years, for a limited session of 60 days. Special sessions have been rare.

Legislators draw a salary of $5 per day for not more than 60 days, and travel allowance of 10 cents a mile from their homes to Pierre and return. They also draw an expense allowance of not more than $200.

South Dakota has five judges in its supreme court. Originally there were three, but the number was increased in 1909 by an act of the Legislature. The judges are elected every six years by a vote of the entire State, and vacancies are filled by appointment by the Governor. The court has both original and appellate jurisdiction although most of its cases are appellate. The only appeal from its decisions is to the United States Supreme Court. Salary of the judges is $3,000 a year, with an $1,800 annual allowance for expenses.

Twelve circuit judges, elected by districts every four years, preside over the tribunals that hear most of the civil and criminal cases arising in the State. They have original jurisdiction over all cases except those of probate, city ordinance, and Federal character. The Salary of circuit judges is $2,500 a year.

The trend of South Dakota's finances is toward a decrease in bonded indebtedness. In 1927 the per capita net bonded indebtedness was approximately $88.66 and by 1936 it had been reduced to $63.56. This included Rural Credit bonds which in 1936 constituted 91.8% of the total net bonded indebtedness while contributing only 16.1% of the total amount in the interest and sinking funds. Outside of the Rural Credits, the bonded indebtedness of South Dakota is almost negligible.

The total revenue available for the State in 1936 was $21,646,494.06 of which practically 23% was Federal aid. The total expenditures were $12,923,444.55, 59.9% for expenses in departments under appointive officers (three-fourths of which was for highway construction), 14.6% for educational institutions, 11.4% for State enterprises, 8.6% for penal and charitable institutions, and the rest for miscellaneous operations.

Supporting Arts Education With One Voice

South Dakota is fortunate that arts instructors have always joined together to enhance their skills and advocate for increased support for their disciplines. Arts South Dakota has recently collaborated with several of these arts educator associations to establish the South Dakota Arts Education Advocacy Cohort, providing a channel through which all of our state's arts education resources can speak with one voice. The cohort will promote a stronger, more effective message that will resonate with statewide constituent populations and the South Dakota legislature.

Focused on arts education advocacy at the state and local levels, this new cohort will ensure that arts education remains a priority for the students of South Dakota. Representatives of seven statewide arts educator groups are meeting under the coordination of retired Brookings music instructor Mary Cogswell to formulate a legislative agenda and establish priorities for the future. This unification gives arts educators the opportunity to study the big picture and create issuesoriented communications to inform the public and help shape the arts education policy for South Dakota.

This is an important step, and Arts South Dakota is excited about its potential for enhancing the impact of arts education and communicating the importance of maintaining a strong arts education component in every school in our state. Forming alliances and working with organizations like the arts educator cohort is what Arts South Dakota was created to do. Strengthening advocacy efforts and focusing the energy of dedicated arts supporters is the most effective strategy for ensuring that creative learning and cultural understanding are part of the South Dakota curriculum for decades to come. We congratulate the volunteer members of the Arts Education Advocacy Cohort and commend them for their willingness to serve our state.

To learn more about the cohort and the advocacy efforts of Arts South Dakota, and add your voice to our advocacy efforts, go to artssouthdakota.org!

Governor Noem Opens Submissions for Student Art Competition

PIERRE – In celebration of National Arts in Education Week, Sept. 9-13, 2024, Governor Noem and the South Dakota Arts Council announce the opening of the Governor's Student Art Competition.

All South Dakota students in kindergarten through 12th grade are invited to participate in this competition. Selected student work from each age division will be exhibited in the State Capitol in Pierre from January through September 2025.

The submission deadline is Nov. 4. The divisions are organized as grades K-2, grades 3-5, grades 6-8, and grades 9-12.

All artwork must be submitted electronically as a high-resolution jpeg image, along with the Student Submission Form. Students whose artwork is selected for exhibition will also need to return the Authorization Release Form with a signature from a legal guardian. Guidelines, submission instructions, and necessary forms are available at https://artscouncil.sd.gov/events/student_art_Main.aspx beginning Tuesday, Sept. 10. Accommodations will be made for any student who encounters barriers to this submission process. Please reach out to Rebecca.Cruse@state.sd.us or call 605-773-5084 for assistance.

We encourage teachers and parents to help students work on their submissions early so they have plenty of time to prepare their artwork and artist statements.

This exciting opportunity for student artists is a collaboration between Gov. Noem and the South Dakota Arts Council, a state agency organized under the South Dakota Department of Tourism.

The South Dakota Department of Tourism is comprised of Travel South Dakota and the South Dakota Arts Council. The department is led by Secretary James D. Hagen.

Letters to the Editor

OFF The Road With Jerry

FAVORITE SWIMMING PLACES

Greetings from a rural resident! I am writing today as a reminder for all on gravel road driving safety. As we face another couple of months of Highway 18 road construction, I have fears that a severe accident is imminent. Each day this project has been lingering on there are hundreds of cars, trucks, semis, etc. that are new to traveling on our township gravel road, who are avoiding the construction project. I am sure many of you have taken a detour yourself. I personally have witnessed many near misses, stop sign violations, and excessive speeds as I travel the 2 miles to work back and forth every day. At any time during the day, I am guessing there are 14-22 school age children that are either living at or spending time at the residences along these two miles. Two school districts bus drivers pick up and drop of children each day, along with the same at a day care along the route. I would like you to think about them when you are choosing to speed by on your way to/from work or in/out of Canton. Also, fall harvesting will soon be in full swing. This week on my way to work, I witnessed a silage truck followed by a semi-tanker, barrel around the corner without slowing down or stopping. A corn field blocks clear vision to the west at this T intersection. Just moments before, the school bus had passed by. If you are on a gravel road, which is your right, please think about others. Slow down. Move over. Stop at intersections. We all have loved ones to get home to. Kristi Carpenter

This is the Devil's Bathtub in the Northern Black Hills. It has its own small waterfall and the mountain water was crystal clear and refreshing.

Dear Editor, At the beginning of this debacle and several times since, we have been accused of being "a few noisy people" who are trying to push the prison onto someone else. We simply see no benefit for Lincoln County in this proposal. We already have the worst property tax problem in the state. The last thing we need is a couple thousand more residents who don't pay local taxes, not to mention property and facility owners who do not pay property taxes either but will need and demand massive services. More importantly, for taxpayers all over the state, the proposed site will require hundreds of millions of dollars in extraneous and unnecessary expense just to bring the basic infrastructure needed and for the operational expense at this location, dollars that could be better spent on other areas of corrections or designing a better and more up-to-date plan for corrections than the disaster we see on the news every few days. So, Mayor TenHaken and Secretary Wasko, since the prison and the homeless issue were there long before you came, deal with it rather than push it off onto someone else. Tom Eiesland

Editor, Lincoln County residents, particularly those living in Canton, should know about a proposal that is currently being very seriously considered by the Lincoln County Commissioners. This proposal consists of setting up and staffing a "satellite office" of the Lincoln County Treasurers office in Harrisburg in the near future. The purpose of this office is to better serve Lincoln County residents who live in Sioux Falls area so they don't have to drive twenty long miles to the county seat of Canton. The cost of this proposal was part of one of the two budgeted proposals considered for next year. Does it concern you that the citizens in the northern part of the county have to drive "all the way" to Canton to purchase license plates and pay taxes? Is that such a hardship to come to the county seat of the county one lives in? The people who live in the Lincoln County portion of Beresford probably drive farther to do business than those Sioux Falls area people. How often do Canton residents drive to Sioux Falls in a year, or even a week? Lincoln County is currently in the process of building a "Justice Center" facility on the west edge of Canton at considerable expense, which is a necessity; but it does put our court house services in two separate buildings. Do we need to set up another county office in another town? If this proposal concerns you, you should let your County Commissioners know. Think about it! Gary Schultz, Canton

This is another view of down below. "Cleopatra Creek" is the beautiful stream creating the falls. It's said that's not always deep enough for doing high dives from the big boulders all around it. A lot of younger people were talking about this in the 1970's and 1980's and many found it. It is in Spearfish Canyon, but not visible from the highway. It takes some hiking up in the interior to find it.

Financial Focus

Should you be a global investor?

Investment opportunities don't stop at the U.S. border. But what should you know about investing internationally? To begin with, what is an international investment? Essentially, it's an investment in companies based outside the United States. Investors can purchase individual foreign stocks, but many people choose international mutual funds or international exchange-traded funds (ETFs), which can be traded like stocks and track a specific market index. It's also possible to invest in bonds issued by foreign governments or entities. However, investors should typically focus on diversified funds and ETFs for international exposure in their portfolios. When you invest internationally, you can receive at least two key benefits. First, international investments can help diversify your portfolio. When you spread your investment dollars among a variety of investments, you can help reduce the impact of market volatility that might affect one type of asset particularly hard. For example, if you only owned stocks and the market went through one of its inevitable downturns, your portfolio would likely take a bigger hit than if you also owned bonds, government securities, certificates of deposit and other investments. And when you invest internationally, you're adding still another layer of diversification — because in any given year, U.S. stocks may be down while those from other regions of the world could be up. Keep in mind, though, that while diversification can help protect you somewhat from market movements, it can't guarantee profits or prevent all losses. Another advantage of international investing is that it can give you more opportunities for growth. You can benefit from taking part in emerging markets that may offer significant growth potential, fueled by rising consumer spending and rapid advances in technology. Of course, you can certainly find many growth-oriented investments in the U.S., but by broadening your outlook to include the whole world, you also widen the playing field for growth possibilities. While international investing does offer some clear benefits, it also carries some risks, including the following:

- Currency risk – The exchange rate between the U.S. dollar and foreign currencies will change constantly. When you invest internationally, this shifting rate can sometimes work in your favor, but it might also reduce your investment returns.
- Political risk – Foreign countries may experience political turmoil that could negatively affect their financial markets and the industries and companies in which you're investing.
- Liquidity risk – Some foreign markets have lower trading volumes than U.S. exchanges and may be open fewer hours. This can lead to lower liquidity, possibly making it somewhat more difficult for you to move in and out of international investments.

You'll want to weigh the benefits and risks of investing internationally before taking action. You'll also want to think carefully about the percentage of your portfolio that you might want to devote to international investments. There's no one "rule" regarding an appropriate amount because everyone's situation is different. And since it's more challenging to understand the global investment picture, you might want to consult with a financial professional. Still, it's a big world out there — and as an investor, you may want to explore it.

This is another popular small special clear water lake, but south of the Black Hills almost 20 miles south of Hot Springs, South Dakota in Fall River County. The water is the overflow out of the same heated water in Hot Springs where the large indoor spa Evans Plunges. This is warm heated water and very clean and safe.

This water is unique and the only one of its kinds except for Evans Plunge, which changes customers bath into healing water. This creek water stays warm all the way to the Cheyenne River where this creek dumps in. One Winter we were traveling around on our way to Edgemont, South Dakota and we saw lots of steam rising all along every foot of the river. It is a very strange scene and hard to get a picture of, but up at these falls steam can be seen some winters on cold days.

Fighting Foes, Fostering Families

BIG News
The Chinese Communist Party (CCP) is gobbling up land outside of China, and we've seen their attempts to purchase farmland in America. I've been vocal in opposition to the CCP's purchases of our ag land – it's a major threat to the security of our food supply. This week, I voted on dozens of bills that get tough on China. One of the bills, the Protecting American Agriculture from Foreign Adversaries Act, passed the House and would strengthen the U.S.'s review process for foreign purchases of American ag land.

I also voted to pass legislation to protect the U.S. from Chinese fentanyl, limit China's leverage in the electric vehicle market, prevent U.S. dollars from going to Chinese biotech companies, and more. China is our biggest adversary – we should not fund their economy and military companies. I'm glad the bills this week take the threat of the CCP seriously and move the needle in the right direction.

BIG Update

Adoption is an incredibly meaningful way to complete a family. Each year, the Congressional Coalition on Adoption Institute (CCAIA) hosts the Angels in Adoption program for members of Congress to honor families who have chosen adoption. I wasn't able to meet with this year's honoree, but in my meeting with CCAIA, I met with Deb and her son Matthew from Aberdeen. Deb has fostered more than 117 children. The Gathering Well was also part of our meeting. They provide support for the adoption and foster care communities in the Sioux Falls area. I appreciate them for sharing their stories with me and for their advocacy work to improve the lives of children.

BIG Idea

Light detection and ranging, or LiDAR, is a remote sensing technology that captures detailed three-dimensional maps of surrounding environments with millimeter-level accuracy. It's used in the transportation sector in autonomous vehicles, drones, traffic control systems, railroad crossings, airports, and more. Allowing China to have such detailed access of our critical infrastructure is a major threat to our national security.

I introduced the Securing Infrastructure from Adversaries Act to prohibit the Department of Transportation from using LiDAR technology and keep our sensitive data out of the hands of those who seek to undermine our nation.

Actions Speak Louder Than Words

By Sen. John Thune
In recent weeks, Vice President Harris has attempted to reinvent herself and run away from her record in the U.S. Senate and as President Biden's vice president. Those who know that record, however, will find it difficult to believe her sudden about-face.

As a senator, Kamala Harris ranked among the institution's most liberal members. She was an early backer of the Green New Deal and Medicare for All. She supported a bill that would mandate all new vehicles be zero-emission by 2040. She even authored a universal basic income proposal that one analyst said "could be the most expensive bill ever introduced." Then, as a presidential candidate five years ago, she ran on an agenda that would please members of the far-left. She endorsed a fracking ban, decriminalizing drug possession, decriminalizing illegal border crossings, and mandatory buybacks of certain guns.

But in just a few weeks' time, Vice President Harris has changed – or at least she would like the American people to think so. As a senator, she called a border wall "un-American" and "a waste of money." Now she supports one. She wanted to ban fracking, now she doesn't. She was for a federal jobs guarantee, but not anymore. She even changed her position on banning plastic straws!

In the last few years, Vice President Harris has also played a key role in implementing President Biden's agenda. She cast the deciding vote to pass a massive spending spree that sparked a historic inflation crisis from which families continue to suffer. A crisis at the southern border raged for years after the vice president was put in charge of the administration's response to it. And we've seen uncertainty on the world stage dating back to this administration's disastrous withdrawal from Afghanistan in which the vice president played a role.

Despite these sudden changes, it seems that progressives should have no cause for alarm. The vice president's former colleague, Sen. Bernie Sanders (D-Vt.), was recently asked whether Harris was abandoning her progressive ideals. "No," he answered, "I don't think she's abandoning her ideals. I think she's trying to be pragmatic and doing what she thinks is right in order to win the election." I think he's right. I suspect that one of the Senate's most liberal members would be one of the nation's most liberal presidents.

Try as she might to remake herself, the vice president's record reveals a lot about her. She has been aligned with the left wing of the Democrat Party, and she's been involved in some of this administration's biggest blunders. No one has to wonder what the next four years would look like – it would be a lot more of the same.

The Basics of Education

By: Gov. Kristi Noem
September 13, 2024

As I watch my grandchildren grow and learn, I'm reminded of something that I learned as a young parent: our kids are capable of learning far more (and more quickly) than we realize before we see it for ourselves. They watch everything that we do, and their little developing brains absorb it shockingly fast.

A two-year-old is capable of looking at two entirely different cups yet identifying both as "cup" because they understand what a cup is at its most basic level. It's a very simple jump from saying "cup" to spelling "c-u-p" – and from there to actually reading.

American education has focused on teaching our kids to read by the time they complete 3rd grade, and far too many students don't even meet that expectation. But reading is actually pretty basic once you break it down to the phonics level. Many of us remember our own phonics instruction, but unfortunately "modern education" has all but gotten rid of it. South Dakota launched a strong investment into the Science of Reading this year, specifically by training teachers how to apply phonics education in their own classrooms. Once this method of teaching takes root, we will be shocked at how quickly our kids learn to read!

Education isn't rocket science (it literally isn't – until at least college, anyway). I know teachers work hard – they do God's work making sure that our students are as prepared as possible for their future. But education doesn't have to be complicated. It can be pretty basic, especially at the elementary level.

Our kids need to learn reading, writing, and arithmetic. From there, they can apply those skills to obtain knowledge. Those basic skills teach them how to learn. And reading – more so than the others – can instill a love of learning that turns our kids into lifelong learners.

In South Dakota, we've revamped how our kids acquire knowledge in social studies. Their education in civics and history starts at a basic level then spirals into more in-depth knowledge – and these standards are raising the bar for what is possible in public education. But again, it isn't rocket science – we focus on learning basic skills and then applying those to obtain real knowledge of America's true and honest history.

Once our kids learn to read – and learn to love reading – they can go read some really great literature that teaches them more about our world. And we should empower both teachers and parents to inspire our kids to seek out that knowledge. Our parents should be the ones who hold ultimate power in their kids' education – and then their teachers should be the next at the table to take this trust and ensure those children get exactly what they need. And they need very little guidance from the outside.

The state has a role to make sure that all of our communities achieve basic standards for our kids. But honestly, I agree with people like Ronald Reagan who often expressed legitimate concerns about the federal government getting involved in the education of our kids. They send us money, sure – but South Dakota schools spend more money complying with federal regulations than they actually receive in federal funding. The power should be held first and foremost by parents, and with their permission, the teachers, then local school districts, then the state – and it should go no further.

We are going to be doing some powerful things in South Dakota education with these basic principles in mind. We've already accomplished a lot to restore parents' role in their kids' education and to support teachers as they educate our kids. And we're just getting started.

I can't wait to see my grandkids continue to amaze me with what they learn – and kids across South Dakota will do the same in every community every day.

Multiple Businesses Across The State Receive Funding Approval

PIERRE, S.D. – The Governor's Office of Economic Development (GOED) approved three SD Works loans, two Revolving Economic Development and Initiative (REDI) fund loans, and one Local Infrastructure Improvement Program (LIIP) grant at this month's meeting.

Hebron Brick Supply Co. is building a new location in Rapid City, allowing them to own their property and expand services. The clay manufacturing business was approved for an SD Works Loan of $1,242,400. This project has an estimated capital expenditure of $6 million and is expected to create seven full-time positions.

CCLLA, LLC has been approved for a $400,000 SD Works Loan to build a new 3,327- square-foot facility for Platte Dental Clinic, LLC. The building will include six treatment offices, with plans to hire a new dentist. The project has an expected capital expenditure of $1.7 million and will create six full-time jobs.

Ft. Pierre-based Morris, Inc. has been approved for an SD Works Loan of $600,000 to replace a nearly 50-year-old redi-mix plant with new technology. This upgrade will increase production by 150% and reduce production time by 50%. This project has a projected $2.4 million in capital expenditure and will bring on seven full-time employees.

The City of North Sioux City has been approved for a $300,000 LIIP grant for the reconstruction of North Shore Drive, a main access road to Dakota Valley School and multiple businesses. The project will rebuild water mains, storm sewers, sanitary sewers, and the roadway itself, with an estimated cost of $1.6 million.

SFC Global Supply Chain Inc., a subsidiary of Schwans Company, has been approved for a total of $25 million in REDI fund loan dollars. The new manufacturing facility will have state-of-the-art automated production lines designed to produce Asian-style foods and will be the company's first facility in South Dakota, providing an estimated 650 full-time positions and a total of $750 million in capital expenditure.

"South Dakota's diverse business landscape continues to thrive," said GOED Commissioner Joe Fiala. "From brick manufacturing to dental care, these projects showcase the entrepreneurial spirit driving our state's economy. We're excited to support these businesses as they expand and create new job opportunities across South Dakota."

Lincoln County Commission

By Jennifer Harms
With all members present, the Lincoln County Commissioners met in the Lincoln County Boardroom Tuesday, September 10 to hear agenda items including liquor license applications, lien repayment, and 2025 provisional budget. Commissioner Recorder, Alicia Cafaro, read to the commission a public hearing to consider an application for a temporary on-sale liquor license to operate outside the municipality for David Derschan, 57015 Bar LLC (Chancellor Bar) for an event to occur on September 14th, 2024, located at located at Prosper Country Warehouse & Event Hall, 46620 278th St., Lennox, SD 57039. The applicant was not present at the time of the public hearing. With no proponents or opponents, motion approved unanimously. At the previous meeting, Commissioners were working out a plan with Evan Roelfsema to release lien amounts for Roelfsema and his wife to be able to purchase a home. Commissioner Schmidt was first to speak on the matter. "I don't know how we're going to actually proceed, but I just want to give a little background. As you know,

Evan and Nadene Roelfsema owed the county some $10,700 for various fees that the county had paid for them. In order to satisfy that lien, we talked a lot about forgiveness, and we went around the horse a long time. In order to more or less satisfy everybody and allow them to purchase their first house, which is a big deal in your life, we worked out the following situation. There will be a promissory note that they will sign, and they will pay $50 a month, interest free, to the county. The remaining amount of money will be placed on a second lien on the home that they are buying." Commissioner Schmidt said. Motion approved. Chief Civil Deputy State's Attorney, Drew DeGroot joined the meeting for board action to rescind Resolution 2024-21, the resolution of necessity for the purposes of Lincoln County Justice Center access. "With the board's commitment to moving down the main access point down West Avenue Northwest back on February 6," he said. On February 6, 2024, the Board passed a Resolution of necessity to acquire real property necessary for opening and constructing Highway. Since that time, the Commission has voted alternative roadway and sanitary access. The Commission has committed to making the primary access points for both services off of N. West Ave. The need to pursue condemnation of the designated H lots fronting the future Justice Center is no longer necessary. With no public input, the motion was approved unanimously. Auditor, Sheri Lund joined the meeting for board discussion with action to approve and adopt the 2025 Provisional Budget as the annual budget of appropriations and expenditures for Lincoln County, its institutions, and agencies for 2025. "We are asking to adopt the provisional budget, but before we do that, I do have some additional changes. With these changes, Terry with the Highway Department has two employees that are 50 per cent in weeds and 50 per cent in the highway. He wants to leave one in the weeds and take the other and move them back to the highway department. The airport has $36,000 budgeted for management fees, but we no longer have the management out there, so we need to take that out of the budget," she said. The motion was approved.

Vote South Dakota Forum Aims To Shed Light On 'Complicated' Election

Trina Lapp, an 18-year-old Milbank native who attends Dakota Wesleyan University, doesn't view politics or the upcoming election as an afterthought. She's digging in. "I think it's important for young people to be involved and learn about the candidates and issues," said Lapp. "We're the upcoming generation that will be the main voters eventually." She is one of several Dakota Wesleyan students who will take part in a Vote South Dakota forum Sept. 19 at the Sherman Center on the DWU campus in Mitchell. Students will team up with South Dakota journalists to ask questions at the forum, which is presented by South Dakota Public Broadcasting, South Dakota News Watch, the McGovern Center for Leadership and Public Service and Dakota Wesleyan University. The two-hour event, to be televised live on SDPB and several commercial TV stations across the state, will feature candidates for the Public Utilities Commission and representatives of both sides of constitutional amendments and initiated/referred measures that will appear on the Nov. 5 ballot. Republican U.S. Rep. Dusty Johnson and his Democratic opponent, Sheryl Johnson, will meet in a separate debate on Oct. 15 that also will be broadcast live on SDPB.

primaries, grocery tax repeal and recreational marijuana. Joel Allen, director of the McGovern Center on the DWU campus, noted that several of the measures have complex language that voters should hear more about before deciding. "This is going to be a complicated election," said Allen, a professor of religion and philosophy. "There's a lot to unpack, so when I heard about this event, it was a no-brainer. I knew we needed to be a part of it." The forum comes at a time of declining trust in democratic institutions in South Dakota and nationally, according to recent polling. A survey co-sponsored by South Dakota News Watch in May found that more than 6 in 10 South Dakotans said they were dissatisfied with how democracy is working in the United States, including 32% who said they were "very dissatisfied." That was followed by historically low turnout in primary elections in June, with just 17% of voters casting ballots, below the state's primary turnout in presidential cycles of 2020 (28%), 2016 (22%) and 2012 (21%). Cara Hetland, director of journalism at SDPB, sees an important role for the media in engaging and informing prospective voters ahead of the general election. She came up with the idea for Vote South Dakota, a partnership among SDPB, News Watch, the South Dakota Broadcasters Association (SDBA) and the South Dakota NewsMedia Association (SDNA). "I feel very strongly about the role that journalists play in asking tough questions and getting clarifications and calling out false statements when appropriate," said Hetland. "It's our duty to hold accountable those who are running for office and standing for these (ballot measures)."

VoteSouthDakota.com website that has a legislative map with information about candidates as well as stories about the election from several news organizations. Teams of regional journalists and DWU students will ask questions of candidates and those representing each issue at the forum, which will be hosted by SDPB's Jackie Hendry. Lapp, a nursing major, will be asking questions about the open primaries amendment and takes her role seriously. She noted that social media outlets such as TikTok are not always reliable sources of information and that "it's important for my generation to be more involved and hear directly from the candidates." Those are encouraging words to Allen of the McGovern Center, founded in 2006 in honor of former South Dakota statesman and presidential candidate George McGovern and his wife, Eleanor. The center's mission, in part, is to "cultivate leaders of integrity who are committed to civic responsibility in their communities." McGovern, who served in the U.S. House of Representatives and U.S. Senate and was the 1972 Democratic presidential nominee, died in 2012. "I envision telling George that we're doing this (forum), and I can just see a big grin on his face," Allen said. "This is something that he would love." Canton City Discussed City Administrator Position

The Canton City Commission met in special session on Thursday, September 12 at 6:30 p.m. at the High School Commons for the City Administrator Town Hall Meeting. All Commissioners were present at the time of roll call.

Present for the panel to answer questions submitted by the Citizens was Tea City Administrator Justin Weiland, Lennox City Administrator Nathan Vander Plaats and Madison City Administrator Jameson Berreth.

Tea City Administrator Justin Weiland has a Masters of Public Administration from University of South Dakota. He served as City Administrator for Lennox and Dell Rapids before taking his role as Tea City Administrator in September 2023. Lennox City Administrator Nathan Vander Plaats holds a Masters of Public Administration from Iowa State University and served as Director for Goodwills of the Great Plains before taking his current role as Lennox City Administrator in December 2018. Madison City Administrator Jameson Berreth holds a Masters of Public Administration from Syracuse University and served at the Volga City Administrator before becoming the Madison City Administrator in May 2021.

Mayor Sandra Lundstrom opened the Town Hall by thanking them for traveling to be here for the Citizens and the City of Canton.

I have heard there is a South Dakota legal definition for the city administrator versus city manager. If this is true, I would like to know the difference and/or similarities and why the city administrator form of government was selected. Under South Dakota Codified Law, the City of Canton is under the Commissioner form of Government. This form of Government allows the City discretion to hire a City Administrator to help with the operations of the City and does not require a vote by the Citizens to employ a City Administrator. The Commissioners still remain the department heads and the Mayor acts as the person in charge. This differs from the City Manager form of Government in which an elected Commission hires a City Manager to act as the administration/executive for the City. To change to a City Manager form of Government, the Citizens would have to petition and bring to public vote. The other major difference is that a City Manager can hire and fire City Employees. A City Administrator does not have those capabilities.

How can we afford an administrator, and how will the position be paid for/ how is the City Administrator's salary funded? Mayor Lundstrom noted that the City has already budgeted for this position for 2025.

What will the commissioners do if we have an administrator? Berreth explained the City Commissioners have full time jobs in addition to their role on the commission. He noted that this makes communication to the public inconsistent and untimely. Weiland echoed Berreth and mentioned that it is the job of the City Administrator to coordinate these things to the Citizens. Vander Plaats added that today's culture wants access to the information immediately and a City Administrator can help coordinate that effort. He also noted that they can help see a different perspective

What will the return on investment be for the administrator? Will the position be eliminated if it doesn't pay for itself? Weiland said he believes that he can justify his salary for the City of Tea and they should try to view the City Administrator position as an investment in the community. He noted that the public is much more informed in a timely fashion as well. Berreth agreed and said it is very easy to get stuck in a complaint cycle when it comes to City Government.

How can we hire an administrator when there is not a job description? Mayor Lundstrom noted that the job description is on the agenda for the City Commission meeting on Monday, September 16. (Reporters Note: Below is the main portion of the proposed job description that will be discussed at the meeting)

What would you do if one of your commissioners came to you with an unethical or borderline unethical proposition and strongly encouraged you to go with this proposition. What would you tell him or her? Vander Plaats mentioned that no City Administrator wants to be put in that position and it is very difficult. He noted that they have to follow rules, laws and ethics. Weiland mentioned that they have to follow the strict Code of Ethics from the International City Management Association (ICMA) and this Code of Ethics is available online.

Is a City Administrator required to live within city limits? Weiland said they should but it is ultimately up to the City Commission to make that decision.

What qualifications are required to become a City Administrator? Is there specialized schooling that for this position. Weiland recommended someone with experience in local government and noted that ICMA does offer certification. Vander Plaats recommended that the candidate have a Masters of Public Administration. Vander Plaats said that he has a Masters of Public Administration and the education covers a wide range of City topics.

What does a typical workday look like for a City Administrator? What duties do you do on a day-to-day basis? How would that be beneficial to a community that doesn't have a City Administrator? Weiland said that every day is different and some days are extremely busy, especially with communication to the public. He mentioned that some of the most important tasks include preparing for Commission meetings so that informed decisions can be made at the meeting with information present and being a one stop shop for the public. Vander Plaats agreed and also added that he does a lot to help the City Departments with the day to day operations, as well as follow up from City Meetings and providing a focal point for the community.

For the City Administrators present, what are the best and worst days you've experienced in your role? Vander Plaats said his examples involved the same days and mentioned two: the Tornado in Lennox in 2021 and the Flood in Lennox in 2024. He said it is hard to see the devastation and damage but it also brings the community together to do amazing things despite difficult times. Berreth said he loves to watch his employees grow.

Who is responsible for monitoring the City Administrator's job performance? Weiland said it is ultimately the Citizens because they elect your Commissioners/Mayor and then the City Administrator reports to the Mayor and City Commission.

For the City Administrators present, how do you know when you've been successful in your role? Weiland jokily said that he is successful when people are not showing up to the meetings upset. He said that success can be measured on how the City/Community feels as whole. Vander Plaats said it ultimately comes down to meeting the needs and expectations of your City, City Commission and Citizens. He also mentioned that ICMA helps City Administrators develop performance management measures/metrics to use for each department in your municipalities.

What role, if any, does the City Administrator have regarding enforcement of city codes/ordinances? Berreth said it is the responsibility of all City Employees, but the City Administrator should be the person taking the lead. Vander Plaats said it depends on how the job description is written and it can be different for each municipality

What is the difference between a "city manager" and a "city administrator"? Does one work better over the other for a city the size of Canton? Weiland said that this question has been discussed and is determined by the needs of your community.

Funding and revenue management are selling points for the administrator position. Since much of the grant funding is a simple pass-through of funds that the city would receive regardless of who is heading city hall. Can you identify other efficiencies that can help to justify the cost of an administrator? Weiland mentioned that they addressed this topic, but reiterated that a City Administrator should be proactive instead of reactive and be looking into the future. He also said that citizens should try to view this position as an investment to the community and the future and not an expense.

How has the day-to-day administration of municipalities evolved over the last few decades? Is it the same or more complex? Weiland said that ever since Covid, the jobs are different and so is the continuing education. He also noted that the changes such as a potential food tax elimination could decrease sales tax revenue. Berreth said that community engagement has become more complicated as there are many more avenues of communications and the public has much higher expectations

The prevailing argument against a city administrator is that "we can't afford it", yet most citizens agree that Canton's spending has gotten out of control. What role would a city administrator play in crafting a budget and ensuring that it's adhered to? Can a competent administrator "pay for themselves" by improving fiscal responsibility and efficiency? Vander Plaats said the budget process is a team sport and he works closely with his Finance Officer. Berreth said that this position can also help the City make sure the money is going to priorities set by your City.

Do you consider yourself on call 24/7? Berreth said the simple answer is yes.

In your opinion do you think it would be beneficial to combine the finance officer position with the city Administrator position? Would it be more cost effect and allow both positions to be done adequately? Weiland said the Finance Officer is part of the City Administrator office and some municipalities consider them the same position, however, he believes they are two different positions. Weiland said that by having a Finance Officer, he is able to focus on the strategic planning, communication, etc., instead of the financial regulations. Vander Plaats agreed and said his Finance Officer is basically an accountant. He also noted that they have a very close partnership.

At 7:55 p.m. Mayor Lundstrom thanked everyone for coming and for submitting questions. She especially thanked Vander Plaats, Berreth and Weiland for their time. Applause occurred from all those in attendance

The extra point kick was no good making the score 9-0 with 1:15 left in the 2nd. The quarter ended as the Tanagers crossed midfield with Canton leading 9-0.

Vermillion passed down to the 28 but on the next play they passed out wide and Jace Charrin took the ball away for the interception for the freshmen's first varsity interception giving the ball back to the Hawks at the 4 yard line. Canton was forced to punt the ball back and Vermillion started at the Hawks 40 but after a good stop by Rylan Larson set up a 4th and 3 at the 34 but Mason Bentz and Rozeboom got the tackle of the quarterback short of the 1st down turned the ball over to the Hawks at the 38. The Tanagers got the ball to start the 3rd quarter at the 28 after good coverage from Schrempp then Vermillion moved the ball thru the air downfield to the Canton 25 when they passed in the corner of the end zone for the 25 yard touchdown pass and the extra point kick was good making it 31-13 at 7:07. Canton would start their first series of the half from the 47 yard line and runs from Granum and Wallner moved it to the Tanagers 28 then Granum went out with an injury then on the next play Rhead threw to Wallner and he outjumped

Went down to Vermillion on Friday night and I can honestly say I have never seen a team throw that much in a football game in high school and that is 44 passes to just 12 rushing attempts. Their passing was pretty good as the quarterback hit 25 passes for 363 yards but only 16 yards rushing but they ended up with 31 points which is the most this season but we also scored 45 for the win in the Dakota Dome. We used a powerful running game with Teague Granum running for 167 yards with two touchdown runs of 51 and 58 yards and both were just about the same run so with the great rushing attack from Teague we also got 121 yards from Cain so that's how you rush for 313 yards plus we also had 166 yards passing that is 479 yards of total offense and 100 yards more than Vermillion. I thought our defensive backs did a good job against their good receivers most of the time and I could see they were working hard to stop them not to mention they are a young group so there is a good future ahead of them. Ok we go to Sioux Falls Christian on Friday night and its their homecoming so they will be ready to go against us so we have to bring our A team and be ready to fight it out. Lots of loud C-Hawk fans would sure help but I expect the football team to give it all they have and we will see what happens.

The girls volleyball team came up against a buzz saw on Thursday when they traveled to Elk Point Jefferson and they lost a close first couple games but lost the 3rd pretty soundly after sweeping Parker 2 days earlier. EPJ had a girl that could spike the ball with some serious power and found the open spot on the floor but I couldn't believe was when Jenna or Macy would spike the ball they had an answer for most of them. Parker didn't have the same answers so that was a 3-0 win. EPJ blocked a lot of our spikes and seem to always find space for the soft dump shots but we didn't have our best game and we will see them again. The girls head down to Dakota Valley for a tough game against the Panthers and then we will have a tough schedule the rest of the season as we head to heart of the year. The girls have a 9-2 record so lets add more wins to that total.

Got invited to a wedding on Sunday for Jacob and Joelle Toso and it was a great wedding over by Harrisburg and it was fun to see some of people I haven't seen for awhile and some I see quite often but after suffering thru the 49ers game before we left it was good to watch a great event like a wedding for two people really love each other not to mention I didn't catch a lot of the business from to many people. I do want to say congratulations to Jacob and Joelle and good luck as you start off your life as a married couple. And if you could figure out why the Niners can't beat the Vikings in Minneapolis but I guess at least they can beat them when it counts like in the playoffs but I am tired of seeing them coming home from MN with a loss.

Sioux Valley News On the Road

Jon and Gloria Bonjour took their Sioux Valley News on an Alaskan cruise. Their adventure was a one of a kind but a trip they will never forget. While they were taking off from Juneau and about to their next stop, the ship hit an iceberg. "It was like living the Titanic but we didn't sink," said Jon. Others saw the iceberg and chunks of ice flying. They flooded the back hatches to access the damage on the front. The damage was fixed and the adventure continued.

September is Suicide Prevention Month in South Dakota

PIERRE-- Governor Kristi Noem has proclaimed September as Suicide Prevention Month in South Dakota. Changing the narrative from one of suffering to one of hope can help reduce stigma, encourage people to seek help, and ultimately save lives. This month, let us commit to challenging outdated beliefs and stigmas surrounding mental health and suicide.

"Suicide stems from deeply personal and complex circumstances, and yet it indiscriminately affects all persons. No matter our age, our race, or our socioeconomic background, all of us can be impacted by suicide," said Department of Social Services (DSS) Cabinet Secretary Matt Althoff. "While suicide rates in South Dakota are declining, much work remains as we strive to make all individuals who are contemplating suicide aware of the resources that are available to them at that very moment when they view suicide as a solution to the challenges they face."

Reducing the stigma around suicide is important for creating a supportive environment where people feel safe to seek help. Althoff urged on behalf of the Department, "Let's challenge ourselves every day to think differently about suicide and mental health, to be part of the change that is so desperately needed so that persons who are struggling will feel more comfortable asking for help."

Here are some strategies to help South Dakota achieve the supportive environment Governor Noem's proclamation is aimed at creating:

Promote Open Conversations

Encourage open discussions about mental health and suicide without judgment. Normalize conversations around these topics to make them more common.

Use Non-Stigmatizing Language

Avoid phrases like "committed suicide," which carries connotations of crime or sin. Instead, use "died by suicide" to promote compassion and understanding.

Highlight Stories of Hope and Recovery

Sharing stories of people who have struggled with suicidal thoughts but found help and healing can reduce shame and offer hope to those who are struggling.

Challenge Stereotypes

Correct misconceptions about who is at risk of suicide. Suicide affects people of all demographics, and addressing these stereotypes can prevent marginalization and isolation.

"Traditional views of suicide often focus on shame, which prevents people from seeking support," said Chief of Behavioral Health Tiffany Wolfgang. "Changing those views and shifting those conversations will foster an environment where people feel safe to talk about their mental health without fear of being judged."

If you or someone you know needs help with thoughts of suicide, please call, text, or chat 988 for free and confidential support available anytime, day or night, seven days a week.
