Doreen Zomer Receives Service Award

Doreen Zomer was the recipient of the Individual Council Award in Dietary. She has worked in the Canton Good Samaritan Society as the Dietary Manager for over 10 years. Prior to that, she also had the titles of Dietary Assistant and Cook.

Zomer is well known at her center for her signature phrase when presented with various challenges: "We will figure it out." She has done exceptional work in figuring out the range of daily challenges from staffing shortages to dining room logistics to keeping mealtimes and snack times fresh.

Her adaptability and calm demeanor have served her well, especially during COVID where a whole new set of difficulties had to be overcome, including finding ways to keep food warm, meeting new infection control regulations, and special procedures for trays and carts.

In addition, she has gotten her whole family involved in life at the center, including her mother who helps cook, her father who works in maintenance, her son who is a dietary aide, and her niece who is a med aide. Her other son often brings his dog by the center for pet therapy. Oh, and her grandfather is a current resident. She has all the bases covered.

The food and goodies that come from her kitchen are second to none, and much appreciated by both residents and staff. Her center is truly blessed to have such a dedicated and talented staff member.

Congratulations to this year's recipient of the Service Award in Dietary, Doreen Zomer of Good Samaritan Society – Canton!

The purpose of this award is to recognize an individual in each of the disciplines (activities, dietary, nursing and social services) who has contributed greatly to the South Dakota Health Care Association and the long term care profession overall. The winners will be recognized at SDHCA's Annual Fall Convention.

Mary Dooley

September 10, 1959 -

October 31, 2024

On the morning of October 31, 2024, Mary Dooley passed away at Ava's House hospice in Sioux Falls after tender care by her beloved family.

Born September 10, 1959 in Canton, Mary was the second daughter born to Roy Meyer and Maryjo Meyer (Hultengren). She grew up near Lennox, graduating from Lennox High School in 1977. Mary worked in numerous industries including various lead positions with Berry Global, and at Showplace Cabinetry (where she worked until her retirement).

A true Midwesterner, Mary enjoyed each season in all its glory. She could be found enjoying a campfire or gardening in the summer, tending her treasured chickens in the fall, watching 'Twister' during a winter blizzard, and baking a delicious cake following the first robin sighting in spring (an event for which her family eagerly awaited updates). Mary was a lifelong learner, and in her spare time could be found researching family genealogy, reading, creating intricate lists and itineraries for family vacations, crafting, and engaging in word games/puzzles.

In October 1978, Mary wed David Parmley, and through their union they welcomed four daughters. In November 2004, after dating for several years, Mary married Clifton Dooley. During this marriage, Mary delivered her fifth daughter. In her relationship with Clif, Mary met her match in curiosity, intelligence, and love. They enjoyed visiting museums during their travels across the Midwest and Las Vegas.

Mary will be remembered always as the most patient, loving, generous, and wonderful mother. She always knew what to say, when saying nothing was best, was your fiercest defender, demonstrated that hard work is integral to a good life, and was present for all of life's moments. All those who had the great fortune of knowing her will remember Mary as witty, quick to laugh (especially with a good pun), kind, and spirited.

In death, Mary is reunited with her father, Roy; and sister, Alice. She is survived by her mother, Maryjo. Her loss is experienced by her siblings John (Mary) Meyer, Chris (Frank, deceased) Hufford, and Patty (Dave) Wilson. Grateful for having shared her life is her husband, Clif. Her independent spirit will continue through her daughters, Valerie (Nicholas Jones) Parmley, Sonya (Shawn) Steele, Carissa (Morris) Lee, Franny Parmley, and Ciara Dooley. Mary's legacy will persist through her grandchildren: Reeve, Jordan, Morgan, Alex, Alexa, Joey, Jacob, Jeffrey and Harrison; and her great granddaughter, Kenyetta.

Public visitation, with the family present, was held Monday, November 4 at Dindot-Klusmann Funeral Home, Lennox. Private burial at the Beaver Creek Cemetery, rural Canton will occur at a later date.

Plant The Faithful Seed

I recently heard a modern day parable about a company CEO who wanted to select his successor. He announced he would retire in a year and gave each of the candidates for the new position a seed and a pot of dirt. They were told they could only use that seed and that dirt. It was their job to plant it and then bring it back the next year with the results. One of the men planted his seed and it did not grow even though he did everything right. He kept watering the pot on a sunny shelf while his coworkers were bragging about their beautiful plants.

At the end of the year, they all brought their plants in to show the retiring CEO. Only one pot had no plant in it. The CEO then explained that all the seeds were sterile and that the man with the empty pot was the only one with the integrity to take his place. The other candidates had looked at the seeds, and when they did not get the results they wanted, they simply found a seed that looked like their original seed and grew a plant. The faithful candidate diligently watered his pot and kept it in the sunlight right up until it was time to present it. He got the job because he was faithful and did what he was told to, not because he had the nicest looking plant.

Far too often, ministry is a lot like the seed test. There are a lot of things that can be done to make it look like we are being faithful. What God really wants is diligence. Good results should not always be thought of as a sign of disobedience. At the same time good results are not always a sign of faithfulness either. We can have good seed, be faithful, and still not have a beautiful plant:

"Hear then the parable of the sower. "When anyone hears the word of the kingdom, and does not understand it, the evil one comes and snatches away what has been sown in his heart. This is the one on whom seed was sown

Let us minister faithfully as we proclaim the truth of Jesus and trust God with the results. www.southtownchurch.com

MEMORY LANE

Dozens of neighbors showed up to help harvest soybeans and corn for Gary Romereim, who was diagnosed this fall with stage 4 lung cancer. The volunteers helped harvest 500 acres in approximately eight hours on two different days. The beans were harvested a few weeks ago and the corn was just harvested last week. Normally it would take Romereim two and one half weeks to complete the harvest. Thanks to the efforts of these volunteers the harvest is one less worry for him as he undergoes cancer treatment.

It was standing room only in the Canton High School Commons Monday night as parents, students and other members of the community came together to support the proposal to grant full credit to band and choir students. The Canton School Board's decision to approve four credits each for band and choir was met by applause and a standing ovation.

Canton opened District play on Tuesday night, November 2, against Beresford in Lennox. The C-Hawks started out a little sluggish early in the first quarter trailing by three, but found their focus to lead by four after the first quarter, 20-16. They increased their lead to 36-23 at halftime and cruised in the second half, leading 41-30 after three quarters and winning 63-42.

With the win over Beresford, Canton earned a spot in the District

Championship game against Lennox on the Orioles home floor. The game was played on Thursday night, November 4. The C-Hawk Ladies came out focused and ready to play. The fourth quarter got quite tense coming down to the last three minutes, but the girls hit some big baskets when they had to and earned a well deserved 53-47 victory for the District 7 Championship.

Lincoln County voters cast the majority of their ballots in the same manner as the rest of the voting public of the State of South Dakota on the state-wide level Tuesday, as they voted to return Senator George McGovern to the United States Senate for another six year term. County and state voters also cast the majority of the ballots for the Kneip-Wollman team over Olson-Clay for the governor and Lt. governor positions. Kneip is the first governor in the history of the state to be elected to a third term.

On Friday, November 1, at 1 a.m. the Canton Fire Department was called to a house fire at Second and Cedar. The interior of the house was badly damaged by smoke and heat. Wiring is believed to be the cause of the blaze. The department remained at the scene until 3:20 a.m.

A group of businessmen from the Canton business district were in attendance at the weekly meeting of the Canton City Commission Tuesday morning. The people were on hand to voice their opposition to the commission changing any more

HISTORY REVISITED

By Gaynor Johnson

We're going to start this week's story shortly after where last week's column left off. I'll be using information mostly from Chapter 3 of Dakota Panorama, published by the Dakota Territory Centennial Commission. This chapter was written by Donald D. Parker. He had compiled a series of books which combined state and county history for many of the counties in southeastern South Dakota. You will read about Indian tribes, Napoleon, Thomas Jefferson, Lewis and Clark, and "little devils in human form." I guess I should have included this before Halloween but

Chapter 3 of Dakota Panorama written by Donald D. Parker

(published in 1961 by the Dakota Territory Centennial Commission) This period saw much migration among the Indians. The Mandans, Arikaras, Poncas and Omahas had lived in South Dakota. The Mandans moved up into North Dakota and the Arikaras followed them in 1823. About 1750 the Sioux, or Dakotas, of Minnesota retreated westward before the Chippewas who had guns, while the Sioux still used bows and arrows. The Teton Sioux drove the Omahas and Poncas southward into Nebraska and took possession of the Big Sioux and James River valleys. About 1780 the Tetons moved farther west, even reaching the Black Hills, and the Yankton and Yanktonais Sioux from western Minnesota and Iowa moved into the Big Sioux and James River valleys. About 1780 the Tetons moved farther west, even reaching the Black Hills, and the Yankton and Yanktonais Sioux from western Minnesota and Iowa moved into the Big Sioux and James valleys. Thus, the French fur traders began to deal with different tribal group. English traders also began to visit the Mandans of North Dakota in 1783 and thereafter occasionally descended the Missouri into South Dakota.

So much is made of the exploratory work of Lewis and Clark that the earlier work of others is little known. The story of the two captains and their expedition is intimately bound up with European history. France claimed what is now South Dakota and the vaster region around it in 1671 and her claim was reinforced by La Salle's explorations in 1682. As the Seven Years war was about to end, France secretly ceded the vast region to Spain which re-cessed it to France in 1800, at which time it was known as Louisiana.

President Thomas Jefferson sent Robert R. Livingston to France to try to buy the area around the mouth of the Mississippi, which included New Orleans. After much negotiation Napoleon agreed to sell not only that area but the whole of Louisiana Territory to the United States for $15 million, thus doubling the area of the young republic.

Napoleon very reluctantly made the sale, but he was afraid that a renewal of the war between England and France would cause him to lose the vast region. Three weeks before the sale he said, "The English have successfully taken from France, Canada, Cape Breton, Newfoundland, Nova Scotia, and the richest portions of Asia. They shall not have the Mississippi they covet. The conquest of Louisiana would be easy, if they only took the trouble to make a decent there. I have not a moment to lose in putting it out of their reach. I know not whether they are not already there. It is their usual course, and if I had been in their place, I would not have waited. I think of ceding it to the United States."

When the cession was an accomplished fact, Napoleon said, "This accession of territory, strengthens forever the power of the United States; and I have just given to England a maritime rival that will sooner or later humble her pride."

President Jefferson had been interested in western exploration for a full score of years before this time. Two months earlier he had suggested exploration to Congress, pointing out the importance of learning accurately about the region and how little it would cost, a mere $2,500.

He appointed his private secretary, Meriwether Lewis to lead the expedition, and Lewis chose his friend, William Clark, as second in command. Jefferson told them to explore the Missouri, cross to the Pacific, make scientific observation, study the Indians and their ways, make friendly agreements with them, and look for opportunities for future trade.

When the expedition started up in Missouri in mid-May, 1804, it consisted of forty-five young men all of whom, it is believed, were unmarried. Only ten were not soldiers. Clark's Negro slave, York, who proved to be a wonder of wonders to the Indians, was among them. The means of transport was three boats and two horses.

Ascending the Missouri the party met occasional fur traders from the Sioux country. On June 8 the journal noted: "we met with a party of three hunters from the Sioux River; they had been out for twelve months, and collected about $900 worth of peltries and furs." Four days later the journal stated: "At one o'clock we met two rafts loaded, the one with furs, the other with tallow of buffalo; they were from the Sioux nation, and on their way to St. Louis; but we were fortunate enough to engage one of the men, a Mr. Durion, who had lived with that nation more than 20 years and was high in their confidence, to accompany us thither." This was Pierre Durion, already-mentioned, who lived among the Yanktons at the mouth of the James River.

As they got near to South Dakota they passed the grave of the greatest Omaha chief, Blackbird, who with four hundred of his people died of smallpox about 1800. Near Sioux City Sergeant Charles Floyd died and was soon replaced by Patrick Gass. On August 21, 1804, the expedition passed the mouth of the Big Sioux and sighted South Dakota. After an affliction of boils, the party landed near Vermillion and all of the party except two walked north seven miles to visit Spirit Mound where, so Indians said, there were little devils in human form, about a foot and half in height, but with enormous heads and very long arms.

(From A South Dakota Guide-Vermillion)

At the western end of main street is a junction with state highway 19. Right on this to Spirit Mound, a high rising from a level plain, and believed to be sacred by the Indians. Lewis and Clark stopped in 1804 to investigate the stories told by the Sioux of mysterious little people who inhabited the mound and shot arrows at anyone who approached. The explorers found neither inhabitants nor any evidence of their activities. There was nothing of unusual interest except the mound, which is approximately 300 feet long, 70 feet wide and 65 feet high.

you'll just have to read on to find out what these "little devils" were all about.

Since this issue will hit stores on Election Day, if you haven't voted you still have time to do that. It will be nice to finally have this election over with and maybe our elected officials can begin to steer our temperatures drop and the winds country down a path where the left blow, we believe it is time to curl and right and those in the middle up with a good book or challenge can come together and make some yourself to a 1000-piece jigsaw positive changes that will help us puzzle, and you can find lots of both all. Wishful thinking maybe but we at the Library. The Prairie Threads have to hope for better days ahead. Quilt Guild continue to share their Happy reading and don't forget that next Monday is Veterans Day.

November is here, and as the hope you will stop by the library and "check it out"!

Lifelong Lessons From South Dakota Schools

By Sen. John Thune

One of the highlights of my travels across South Dakota is the opportunity to visit schools and meet young people. It's refreshing to see their engagement with the important issues facing our country and hear about their dreams for their own future and for our country's future.

In just the last few weeks I've spoken to high school students in McLaughlin, Winner, and Summit. I had the chance to share what I do as a senator and answer their questions about current events, my job, and issues that are important to them. I visited the University of South Dakota and made a trip to Northern State University for Gypsy Days. I even had the chance to talk to some inquisitive fourth graders in Burke and join them for a game of four square.

These visits always remind me of what I love about South Dakota. We're a state of small towns and big hearts, and I know I can count on a warm welcome and some tough questions from well-informed students who care about their community and country.

They also bring back memories of my own school years in Murdo. I feel very blessed to have attended a small school, where I got to try a lot of different things. I played football and basketball and ran track. I took piano lessons, sang in the swing choir, and I even played the sousaphone in the band. I may not be using these skills directly as a U.S. senator, but each of these experiences surely taught me lessons that I apply every day.

My high school years also introduced me to some formative people in my life, people like my English teacher Margie Peters, Coach Jerry Applebee, and Jim Abdnor. They were incredibly influential in shaping my life, solidifying my values and work ethic, and opening doors for me.

Mrs. Peters, Coach App, and Jim all showed me how to be a difference-maker by how they lived, and they certainly made a difference in my life. When I visit a classroom, I always tell young people, whatever you do, be a difference-maker; be willing to serve causes greater than yourselves because when everything else has faded away, your character and what you've done to make the world around you better is all that's left.

I'm proud that as a U.S. senator, I'm able to offer students opportunities to be difference-makers. High schoolers can strive to earn the Congressional Award, which recognizes students who achieve goals in volunteering, personal development, fitness, and exploration. Juniors in high school may also serve as pages in the U.S. Senate, assisting in the legislative process and getting a hands-on civics education for a semester. And, it's a privilege to be able to nominate South Dakotans to attend a military academy and serve our country in the Armed Forces.

Whenever I leave a school visit, I have a renewed optimism for the future of our country, and it's great to see the next generation embodying the South Dakota values that make our state such a great place to live. I hope they will carry these values wherever life takes them.

8 Ways To Honor Veterans

Millions of people make considerable sacrifices to protect the freedoms of their fellow citizens. According to the Pew Research Center and data from the Department of Veterans Affairs and the U.S. Census Bureau, there are currently more than 18 million living veterans in the United States. The 2021 Census counted 461,240 veterans in Canada, according to Veterans Affairs Canada.

The term "veteran" refers to a person who served in the active military, naval, air service, or space service and was discharged or released under conditions other than dishonorable. In the U.S., there are actually five types of protected veterans, according to the Vietnam Era Veterans' Readjustment Assistance Act of 1974. Under VEVRAA, a veteran may be classified as a disabled veteran, recently separated veteran, active duty wartime or campaign badge veteran, or Armed Forces service medal veteran.

Veterans deserve respect and admiration all year long, but also get their own holiday each November. Veterans Day celebrates veterans' patriotism and willingness to sacrifice and serve. This Veterans Day, people can consider these eight unique ways to honor the veterans in their community.

1. Attend events. Organize or participate in local Veterans Day celebrations, such as parades and ceremonial events.

2. Get involved with veterans' affairs. Support veterans by volunteering with organizations that assist them, such as the VA, local veteran's groups, VA hospitals, or charities dedicated to veteran services.

3. Petition for veteran speakers. Reach out to schools, scout troops or other groups and arrange opportunities for veterans to share their stories and contributions. Learning about the sacrifices these men and women made can heighten individuals' appreciation for veterans.

4. Support the families of veterans. Reach out to veterans' families, who also must make sacrifices and concessions. Anything from shopping, babysitting, doing chores, or making a meal can help the families of veterans.

5. Make a donation. If finances allow, make contributions to reputable charities that provide services for veterans like those that offer mental health counseling or job placement services. If there isn't a charity that fits with your vision, begin one.

6. Hire veterans to work. If you are a business owner or hiring manager, consider hiring veterans for open positions at your company. It can be challenging to re-enter the workforce after service, so make it known that your firm welcomes veterans.

7. Offer personal acknowledgements. Take the time to speak to veterans and thank them for their service. If possible, when dining out, ask the server if you can pay for the meal of a veteran who also is dining that day.

8. Don't forget the fallen veterans. Although Memorial Day is designed to honor those who lost their lives through military service, people still can honor the fallen veterans on Veterans Day by sharing stories or placing flags at veteran cemeteries.

Veterans Day is celebrated on November 11, marking an opportunity to express one's gratitude and support for the scores of veterans who have served honorably.

Back the Blue

By Rep. Dusty Johnson

BIG Update

South Dakota's support for our men and women in blue was on full display this week when I joined more than 2,000 law enforcement officers and supporters at the annual Law Enforcement Appreciation Dinner. In a highly divisive and sometimes violent time, these officers run into dangerous situations to save lives. I'm grateful for all they do to keep our communities safe.

BIG Idea

Life Flight serves a 150-mile radius in the Black Hills and saves thousands of lives every year. This flying ICU and its EMTs are essential for South Dakota's long distances between many rural communities and the closest hospital. We discussed the need for more EMT training in South Dakota to ensure adequate staffing to save lives.

BIG News

The border crisis has made communities less safe around the country. This week, an illegal immigrant in Chicago shot a Jewish man walking to a synagogue. The illegal immigrant is from Mauritania, a country in West Africa. Migrants from Mauritania are supposed to be subjected to additional screening protocol by the Department of Homeland Security when entering the U.S., due to security concerns and a unique travel pattern they follow that allows them into our country. Although these protocols exist, the gunman was released into the U.S. We must secure our southern border so attacks like this don't happen again.

While the shooter has been charged with 14 felony counts, unfortunately Chicago is a sanctuary city, which shields illegal immigrants from federal law enforcement like Immigration and Customs Enforcement (ICE). Chicago may refuse to cooperate with ICE, should the agency request removal of the illegal immigrant. This is unsafe for Chicago and unsafe for America.

I voted for the No Bailout for Sanctuary Cities Act to ensure sanctuary cities like Chicago don't receive any federal funds that would benefit illegal immigrants. These cities should not be allowed to use federal dollars to provide food, shelter, healthcare, legal services, and transportation to illegal immigrants.

The border crisis doesn't only exist at the border. It has spread into communities across America. Every state and city must take their responsibility to protect Americans seriously.

100 Years Ago This Month: Historical Events From November 1924

The month of November has been home to many historical events over the years. Here's a look at some that helped to shape the world in November 1924.

- The Meteorological Flight Service is introduced by the British Royal Air Force on November 1. The service is implemented to identify temperature, pressure, humidity, and general weather conditions.

- Éamon de Valera, future President and Taoiseach of Ireland, is sentenced to a month in prison on November 1 for illegally entering Ulster, Northern Ireland.

- A freight train hits a street car after midnight in Chicago on November 2. Witnesses reported the freight train had no lights on as it reached the railroad crossing at the intersection of North Avenue and Kingsbury Street. Ten passengers on the street car are killed and 31 others are injured.

- On November 3, presidential hopefuls Calvin Coolidge, who is seeking to be elected after succeeding to the presidency upon the sudden death of President Warren G. Harding in 1923, and John W. Davis make their final appeals to voters via radio addresses. Coolidge is elected the following day.

- A mutiny occurs on the Brazilian battleship São Paulo on November 4. Eight Brazilian Navy officers and 260 sailors are involved in the failed rebellion.

- Despite having no experience in finance, Winston Churchill is appointed British Chancellor of the Exchequer on November 6.

- Korean nationalist Syngman Rhee announces plans to gain independence for Korea from the Japanese Empire on November 8. Rhee makes the announcement in Honolulu, Hawaii.

- In a political misstep, 185 opposition members fail to show up for a new session of the Italian Parliament on November 12. The move is a protest against the Fascist Party, which uses the members' absence to enact Prime Minister Benito Mussolini's restrictive program.

- On November 14, noted explorers Roald Amundsen and Lincoln Ellsworth announce plans for a joint polar flight expedition in 1925.

Take the Time to Honor Veterans This Holiday Season

The holiday season is a time when family and friends gather to reconnect and celebrate. For many families there are people missing from these celebrations, whether they sacrificed their lives defending the country or died honorably years after serving in the military.

As individuals plan to add spirit to homes and businesses through decorations and other touches, they also can consider adding a bit of the holidays to the places where their beloved service members lie in eternal rest. This is the main premise behind the Wreaths Across America organization.

The primary activity of Wreaths Across America is to distribute wreaths to be placed on graves in military cemeteries. On National Wreaths Across America Day, which takes place on a moving day each December at thousands of locations, volunteers place wreaths on headstones and read out the names of the service members.

The organization was founded by Morrill Worcester and his wife, Karen, as a way to teach all generations about the value of their freedoms and the importance of honoring those who sacrificed so much to protect those freedoms. Worcester, owner of the Worcester Wreath Company in Maine, remembered a trip to Arlington National Cemetery. In 1992, when Worcester's business had a surplus of wreaths nearing the end of the holiday season, he remembered an indelible image of wreaths on graves at Arlington and devised a way to put those wreaths to use honoring the country's veterans.

Arlington National Cemetery was the first place to receive wreaths. Since then, the movement has grown to include cemeteries across the nation. In 2022, Wreaths Across America and its national network of volunteers placed more than 2.7 million sponsored veterans' wreaths on headstones of our nation's service members at 3,702 participating locations.

Although veterans are remembered each Memorial Day and Veterans Day, they can be honored 365 days a year for their service and sacrifices. Wreaths Across America offers an important way to set aside time during the holiday season show appreciation for veterans who are no longer with us.

Those looking to get involved can visit www.wreathsacrossamerica.org to learn more about volunteer opportunities or bringing WAA into their communities.

I am not sure what to write about this week after the loss to Lennox Thursday in the first round of the playoffs and I have been pulling my hair out wondering what I can say. Ok my hair is short anyway so that wasn't that bad but as for the game it was hard to watch as Lennox would just run up the gut and we couldn't do anything about it. I have watched a few C-Hawk football games in my life and I can not remember getting the mercy rule against us and there was still time left in the game but with no offense from our team with under 100 yards all game we didn't help our defense out to much. I know the boys out on the field were trying their best and sometimes the other team just has everything working that good and I think everything Lennox tried worked out good for them and bad for us. In 11A this year there is a top 4 teams that are better than the rest and they are the 4 still in the semifinals and we just weren't in that top group but we had good players that just finished it off to get in that group. We finished with a 4-6 record and that was ok but I know they wanted better but we just didn't have enough speed and enough experience in the line spots but we did have good size we just need more experience. Sometimes you need crazy dogs on the line along with someone who just wants to go hit something or someone I am not sure how you teach that it has to be inside you. I watch the linemen a lot during the game since I was on that group many years ago and I liked the challenge of moving someone to make a spot for our running backs to get all the glory and not even care if a linemen would get noticed but when a linemen is not recognized that means he is doing his job. If you are a younger and bigger kid playing just keep working at being the best linemen ever and listen to your coach. We will need to replace a bunch of linemen next year and the best way to do that is start lifting weights and get ready to come back next year to play like a crazy dog and I will guarantee your name will get in the paper from some old lineman.

I watched a lot of football this year and out of the 14 seniors we had this year 5 played for me on our 5th and 6th grade football team Johnson Feed and they even played their last game in a snow storm but then added a good group of players to this group but they should have been playing back then. Here is the list of seniors Teague Granum, Cain Wallner, Andrew Ortman, Rylan Larson, Caleb Hofer, Tyler Rozeboom, Hunter Richmond, Chance Riley, Tyler Lease, Jacob Rube, Jesse Wentz, Cam Winter, Jerihia Pullins and Corbin Winquist. Out of all that group I had Cain, Andrew, Tyler, Hunter and Tyler and to you guys I have been watching for many years and I enjoyed yelling at you guys in practice and coaching you for a couple of years a long time ago. I hope you had fun then and now on the football fields and find good things to remember what can help you become great adults. Good luck as you move on to college or whatever your plans may be and remember you will always be a C-Hawk. Cain don't forget when you think your hands are too cold and you can't pass the ball you really can and good luck at USD and I can't wait to come down and watch every chance I can.

Ok then come Saturday I headed down to Lincoln Nebraska to watch my favorite college team as they were playing a team that were supposed to beat cause they only had 2 wins and we were going to get bowl eligible with the 6th win. The McCann family went along to the game with Andy, Megan and Grayson stuck with me at the game. We got to the stadium and found the seats and were glad it wasn't raining and then once the game got going it was a lot of what the heck are they doing yells from all around and a lot of not that nice but it hurt they way it went and how bad we played but it is still kind of cool to see the sea of red in the place where they have had 402 straight sell outs and now we are in the 402nd. We had a chance in the end of the game to either tie it or win it and just came up short and that is how you get 89,000 fans to leave grumpy except for the 200 UCLA fans that were there. I don't know if we will get a win in the last 3 games but I do know I look good in Husker stuff and I have fun with the McCann's and Grayson didn't learn new swear words from me but the guy a couple rows in front of us taught a lot of people some new words. GO Big Red and maybe Go further Big Red.

Good luck to our volleyball team as they start regions this week and lets get to Dakota 16 then to state!!!!

Did you know? Kids Enjoying Fall American know?

Leaves that fall from trees can be a marvel to behold. But leaves can stain exterior surfaces when they eventually settle on vehicles, concrete driveways, patios, and other surfaces, become wet and/or are not cleaned away in a timely fashion. Leaf stains are caused by tannins in the leaves. The pigments can be absorbed by porous materials like concrete and leave stains behind. While these stains may wash away over time, homeowners may prefer a faster way to get rid of unsightly stains. To remove moderate leaf stains, mix oxygen bleach with hot water and apply to stains using a scrub brush. Dark stains may require a tougher cleanser, such as one that contains trisodium phosphate. Some homeowners find success using a pressure washer to clean away leaf stains, while others rely on commercial leaf-stain removers.

The weather has been warm but the leaves are still falling. Adults look at the piles and think of how much work it will be to clean it all up. These youngster just wanted to throw and play in all the leaves.

Employees of Bidwell- A Terex Brand went out last Friday to do their part of cleaning up the ditches before they fill up with snow. Lots of garbage end up in the ditches along the highway throughout the summer.

Kids Enjoying Fall American Diabetes Month: We Fight for You

November is American Diabetes Month®, a time for the American Diabetes Association® (ADA) and the world to rally behind the fight to end diabetes. Nationwide, over 38 million people have diabetes and nearly 98 million have prediabetes. In the last 20 years, the number of Americans with diagnosed diabetes has more than doubled.

For many, a diagnosis of diabetes brings shock and worry about costs, care and how life will change. The ADA is here with resources to meet people where they are, offering nutrition and diabetes education, mental health encouragement, and evidence-based recommendations for diabetes treatments and technologies.

"While the statistics are stark, this American Diabetes Month we're reminded that behind every number is a person, likely someone you know or love, with their own story. It's a friend struggling to afford insulin, a child placing an insulin pump for the first time, or a neighbor who just learned that diabetes is causing their blurred vision. At the American Diabetes Association, we're fighting for a cure for all of them," said Charles "Chuck" Henderson, the ADA's chief executive officer.

The ADA's vision, life free of diabetes and all its burdens, is more critical than ever before. Through advocacy and education, we're fighting to improve the quality of life for everyone affected by diabetes. We're driving discovery and research to treat, manage, and prevent diabetes while working relentlessly for a cure.

This American Diabetes Month, join us in raising awareness about diabetes and the lives it touches. Learn your risk of developing diabetes and encourage friends and family to do the same. Talk to your health care provider. Stay informed. Share your story. And join the fight at diabetes.org/WeFight.

Preventing Diabetes Health Problems

Diabetes is a disease that occurs when your blood glucose, also called blood sugar, is too high. When it's not managed, diabetes can damage the eyes, kidneys, nerves, and heart, and is linked to some types of cancer.

If you have diabetes, taking charge of your health as soon as possible may help you prevent other health problems.

Here are some tips to help you prevent or manage diabetes.

Manage your A1C blood glucose, blood pressure, and cholesterol levels.

Take care of your mental health.

Ask your doctor what your goals should be, and stay informed about your A1C level.

A mental health counselor may help you find healthy ways to cope with stress.

Make lifestyle changes to slowly build healthy habits.

Take your medicines on time, even if you feel healthy.

Take small steps to eat healthier, be more physically active, and get enough sleep.

Talk to your doctor or pharmacist for help if you have trouble managing your medicines.

They can help you prevent or manage diabetes and refer you to other health care professionals for related health problems.

Fall Time Change Creates Increased Danger on the Roads

End of Daylight Saving Time means sun glare for the AM commute, darkness for the PM commute, and drowsy driving hazards.

Daylight Saving Time ended at 2 a.m. this Sunday, November 3, and with the change comes increased risks on our roads from limited visibility and drowsy driving.

As we prepare to turn our clocks back one hour, and in support of Drowsy Driving Prevention Week, (November 3-9), March_2022_Daylight_Saving_p.jpg AAA reminds motorists to be aware of increased drowsiness due to disturbed sleep patterns and reduced visibility due to daylight changes. Additionally, AAA urges drivers to make sure their eyes and prescription eyewear are ready for the darker winter months.

Drowsy Driving Dangers

Previous research by the AAA Foundation for Traffic Safety showed that an estimated 17.6% of all fatal crashes in years 2017–2021 involved a drowsy driver. Over the 5-year study period, an estimated 29,834 people were killed in crashes that involved drowsy drivers.

"While many will enjoy an extra hour of sleep this weekend, drivers may not realize the added dangers that can come as the result of a time change," said Shawn Steward, Public Affairs Manager for AAA South Dakota. "This one hour shift during the fall not only creates darker driving conditions, it can also interrupt sleep patterns, potentially resulting in drowsy driving episodes."

Symptoms of drowsy driving can include having trouble keeping eyes open, drifting from lanes or not remembering the last few miles driven. However, more than half of drivers involved in fatigue-related crashes experienced no symptoms before falling asleep behind the wheel.

AAA Foundation for Traffic Safety's 2020 Traffic Safety Culture Index data shows that most motorists (95 percent) identify drowsy driving as very or extremely dangerous. Yet, despite high rates of perceived danger and personal/social disapproval regarding drowsy driving, about 17 percent of drivers admit to having driven while being so tired that they had a hard time keeping their eyes open, at least once in the past 30 days.

Additional AAA Foundation research findings:

- Drivers who have slept for less than 5 hours have a crash risk comparable to someone driving drunk.
- Drivers who miss one to two hours of sleep can nearly double their risk of a crash.

While the signs of drowsiness should never be ignored, drivers must not wait for their bodies to sound the alarm. AAA recommends the following drowsy driving tips.

Tips to Avoid Drowsy Driving

- Get plenty of sleep – at least 7 hours a night
- Travel at times of the day when you are normally awake
- Avoid heavy foods
- Avoid medications that cause drowsiness or other impairment
- For longer trips, drivers should:
- Schedule a break every two hours or every 100 miles.
- Travel with an alert passenger and take turns driving.
- Pull into a rest stop and take a quick catnap — at least 20 minutes and no more than 30 minutes of sleep — to help to keep you alert on the road.

Tips for Nighttime Driving

- Reduce speed and increase following distances. It is more difficult to judge other vehicles' speeds and distances at night.
- Turn on headlights to see better during dawn and dusk and to be more visible to other drivers.
- Make sure headlights, tail lights and signal lights are working properly
- Keep lights and car windows (inside and out) clean for best visibility
- Have headlights properly aimed. If not properly aimed, headlights will blind other drivers and reduce your ability to see the road.
- When following another vehicle, keep your headlights on low beams so you don't blind the driver ahead of you.

Focus on Clear Vision

According to a new AAA survey, more than 6 in 10 U.S. drivers rely on prescription eyewear behind the wheel, but a notable 37% hadn't had a vision test or eye exam in over a year or longer. Younger drivers, aged 18-54, were particularly likely to have missed recent eye exams, with only 53% having had one within the past year.

AAA encourages all drivers to prioritize their eye health and ensure they have up-to-date prescriptions. Regular eye exams play a crucial role in identifying potential vision problems and ensuring safe driving conditions. With the visibility changes and challenges that come with Daylight Saving Time's end, AAA recommends that drivers should:

- Compensate for reduced visibility by decreasing your speed and increasing the following distance to four or more seconds behind the car in front of you.
- Keep your eyes moving. Do not focus on the middle of the area illuminated by your headlights. Watch for sudden flashes of light at hilltops, around curves, or at intersections, as these may indicate the presence of oncoming vehicles.
- Look at the sides of objects. In dim light, focus on the edges or outlines of objects. Your eyes can pick up images more sharply this way than by looking directly at the object.
- Avoid being blinded by oncoming high beams. If the driver of an oncoming vehicle fails to dim the lights, look down toward the right side of the road. You should be able to see the edge of the lane or the white-painted edge line and stay on course until the vehicle passes.

Dangers to other Roadway Users

According to the National Highway Traffic Safety Administration (NHTSA), nationwide, there were 684 deaths from drowsy-driving-related crashes in 2021. Tired drivers are not as focused and are at risk of being distracted.

First responders, construction workers, and people stranded with a vehicle breakdown on the side of the road are especially vulnerable to drivers who are not paying attention and are in greater danger of being hit. Almost 2,000 people were killed outside of the vehicle, in roadside crashes over the five-year period from 2017-2021, and nearly 1,500 – more than 75% of those deaths occurred after dark, according to data* analyzed by the AAA Foundation for Traffic Safety. This is important always, at all hours, but it is even more critical, as the days grow shorter and it gets dark earlier.

"This data is extremely troubling, especially with the darkest days of the year ahead, and serves as a reminder for drivers to Slow Down and Move Over when they see first responders, tow truck drivers and others with emergency lights flashing at the roadside," said Steward. Nearly 25 states have Move Over laws that also include motorists dealing with disabled vehicles.

In addition to driver dangers, pedestrians are also particularly vulnerable as the sun sets earlier. In 2021, 76% of pedestrians were killed in collisions that occurred when it was dark, with another 4% occurring during dusk or dawn, according to NHTSA.

"Pedestrians should also be mindful that motorists may not always see them at night or in the morning and late afternoon as drivers fight sun glare," said AAA's Steward. "Pedestrians need to do their part by wearing bright colors and crossing at intersections or corners, which increases their visibility to motorists."

Tips for Pedestrians and Bicyclists

- Cross at intersections or corners. Do not cross in the middle of the street or between parked cars.
- Evaluate the distance and speed of oncoming traffic before you step out into the street. Remember, during inclement weather, a vehicle needs extra time and distance to stop.
- Avoid walking in traffic where there are no sidewalks or crosswalks. If you have to walk on a road that does not have sidewalks, walk facing traffic.
- Wear bright colors or reflective clothing if you are walking or biking near traffic at night. Carry a flashlight when walking in the dark.
- Bicycle lights are a 'must have' item for safe night riding, especially during the winter months when it gets dark earlier.

- Do not let umbrellas or jacket hoods block your view of approaching traffic.
- Avoid listening to music or use only one earbud so you can hear danger approaching.

Tips to Protect Roadside Workers, Stranded Drivers

- Remain alert, avoid distractions, and focus on driving.
- Keep an eye out for situations where emergency vehicles, tow trucks, utility service vehicles, or disabled vehicles are stopped on the side of the road.
- When you see these situations, slow down and, if possible, move one lane over and away from the people and vehicles stopped at the side of the road.
