Canton Produce Co-op Offers Two Sizes of Baskets

The Canton Produce Co-op is a group of people from the Canton area that pool their money to buy produce at bulk prices. The produce is then divided amongst those that contributed. They then pick up their produce during the pickup window. If they miss the window to pick up the produce, it is donated. The group is run by volunteers and almost all the money contributed goes to the purchasing of the produce. $1.50 goes towards the cost of their website and supplies to divide up the produce. Currently their website is live for contributions from Sunday at 6pm through Wednesday at 6am. This will be changing soon after talking with the produce company. The produce company they work with is out of Sioux Falls and is welcome to anyone who would like to participate. The group tries to get a variety of fruits and vegetables in the baskets and strive to get the best prices available. They currently offer two sizes of baskets. A large for $21.50 and a smaller basket for $11.50. The smaller baskets are great for those that have a smaller sized family. They also offer additional bulk boxes of different produce each time. If you are a canner or baker, you can get some good deals!

To stay updated with changes and available times to contribute, visit their website at: <https://canton-produce-co-op.square.site/>

If interested, you may also request to join their group on Facebook, called "Canton Produce Baskets."

The pickup days will be changing to Saturdays, with the first Saturday pickup day on January 25th at the Canton High School Lunchroom, with a pickup time from 10:30-11. Watch out for upcoming February dates!

Cold, Dry January in Canton Area

Snowblowers and shovels are gathering dust so far this winter as the area's precipitation totals have been below average.

The Farmers' Almanac prediction of South Dakota having a cold and snowy winter for 2024-2025 has been correct on half of their prediction as of now. Although the area has been experiencing some colder temperatures, it has not been as extreme as past winters. The Almanac predicts the winter to not be as cold as usual. They are also predicting that this weather will have a series of storms with rain and snow, the coldest temperatures being in the Northern Plains and Great Lakes region, a cold outbreak in late January and early February, and a few winter storms including a blizzard. They attribute their predictions to La Niña, which is a period of cooling of the ocean surface temperatures in the central and eastern Pacific Ocean. La Niña is expected to develop and last through February. This event occurs every three to five years, but on occasion can occur for longer.

According to the National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration (NOAA), the slowly developing La Niña season this winter will influence precipitation predictions.

NOAA temperature predictions are below normal temperatures for most of South Dakota for January and February and are predicting equal chances of average snowfall for South Dakota. The average high temperature for November 2024 was 44 degrees and a low temperature of 26 degrees. For December of 2024, the average high temperature was 30 degrees, and the average low temperature was 14 degrees.

South Dakota's winters are characterized by alternating mild and extreme cold, with average January highs below 32°F and lows below 10°F. The coldest temperature ever recorded in Sioux Falls was -42°F on February 9, 1899.

The average annual snowfall total for the Canton area is 36.1 inches, with South Dakota as a whole averaging one hundred inches of snow. Most of these totals have been accounted for by the western side of the state. The January average highs for South Dakota are below 32 degrees, with average lows below 10 degrees.

The totals for snowfall in the Sioux Falls area for the last five years are as follows:

2020-2021 winter 40 inches

2021-2022 winter 19.9 inches

2022-2023 winter 65.2 inches

2023-2024 winter 25.2 inches

So far, for the winter of 2024-2025, the area has had only 1.24 inches of snow since November. There has been minimal precipitation included as well, and some frost with the freezing temperatures.

The easiest way to measure snow according to the National Weather Service, is to place a "snow board" on the ground. You can do this by placing a light-colored board on the ground or on top of new snow and marking its location with a stake or flag. To measure the snow, you can use a yardstick. Place the yardstick straight into the snow until it reaches the snow board. Record the measurement to the nearest tenth of an inch. After measuring you may clear off the board and place it on top of the snow, so that it is ready for the next time you want to measure snowfall totals.

Sawyer Douglas Van Zee

December 24, 2024 -

December 27, 2024

Sawyer Douglas Van Zee, 3-day old son of Preston and Kimberly (Elenkiwicz) Van Zee, passed away on Friday, December 27, 2024 in the Avera McKennan NICU. A private family funeral mass was held on Friday, January 3, 2025.

Sawyer surprised everyone by coming into this world at 12:03 AM on Christmas Eve. Although he faced an uphill battle, Sawyer fought hard his entire life. During his short stay with us, he loved hearing his parents' voices, being held and snuggled, and listening to Berenstain Bears books. He was also baptized during his time with us.

He will be forever loved and remembered by his parents, Preston and Kimberly; grandparents, Doug and Brenda Van Zee, Kyle Dean (Sandra) Elenkiwicz, and Cynthia (Richard) Wakeman; aunts and uncles, Megan (Kyle) Munneke, Chelsea Van Zee (Ryan Mulder), and Pamela (Drew) Garry; cousins, Derek, Gretchen, Dax, Carter, Jayden, Hazel, Grace, Maggie, Dean, Harrison, and Gabriel; along with many extended family.

Sawyer had a wonderful medical team that worked around the clock and beyond shift hours. When Sawyer passed, they shared tears and helped us in our time of initial grief.

In order to show our appreciation, we request that in-lieu of flowers, you can send a donation to the charity they hold dear- The Oaklyn Foundation

Commentary

By Pastor Jerry Miller

Are You Still Afraid?

Before writing about all the scary things in life, I must admit that I feel safer today than I have ever felt. If I have an emergency, I can simply reach for my cell phone and help will arrive quickly. The model of vehicle I drive has been crash tested and all the vehicles made in the last 25 years are much safer than those I grew up riding in. But most of all, I feel safe, because I know that the creator of the universe, Jesus Christ, loves me.

Still there is a lot to be afraid of. We recently lived through a pandemic that others did not survive. That event showed how quickly things can change and how fragile life is. It was a reminder that life could be turned upside down at any moment.

Thankfully we are not in the middle of war, but the news coverage of the Russia/Ukraine conflict shows how quickly people's lives can be disrupted by war and the death and chaos that comes with it.

Not only have we experienced the pandemic, but we know someone who has had cancer. Will you or I be next? The pandemic also showed how vulnerable our economy can be. Will we have a job and if we do will it be enough to pay our bills?

Thankfully most of us have friends and family who can help us through whatever tough times come along, but what if they are the first victims of the next pandemic? What if they lose their jobs? What if they move far away? What if there is a climate disaster and the whole earth freezes or burns up? What if there is a major earthquake, a tornado, or a volcanic eruption?

The things to worry about are endless, so we need to find a way to overcome our anxiety. Go back to the first paragraph and remember what we have to be thankful for. Thankfulness is the best cure for anxiety. Then we need to remember that no matter how bad things get, God is still in control.

If you do not know God well, then that statement will not be very comforting. You will fear what he will allow- knowing that he has already allowed pandemics, wars, and natural disasters. What you need to grasp, however is his love and goodness in spite of the trials he allows.

The Gospel of John is a great place to begin reading about the love of God. It tells in chapter 1, that Jesus is God and that he is full of grace and truth. In the 3rd chapter we read about how God so loved the world that he gave his only begotten son. In chapter 5 we see the love of Jesus as he healed a man who could not walk. In chapter 6, he feeds 5000 with 5 loaves and 2 fish. In chapter 8, he shows compassion on a sinful woman. In chapter 9, he gives a blind man sight. In chapter 10, he shows that he is the good shepherd who cares for his sheep. In chapter 11, he raises Lazarus from the dead after he weeps with the family. In chapter 13, he washes other's feet. In chapter 17 he prays for us. Finally we see his love as he died on the cross for our sins, but then we see his power as he rose from the dead. As this world is in chaos, take comfort in knowing both the love and power of God.

If you are feeling anxiety over uncertainty, know that the love of God is certain. Read the gospel of John to learn about that love. You can even find it free online at places like blueletterbible.com. You can then select the version of your choice. The ESV or NKJV are fairly easy to understand. Let God speak to you through his word so you can know him better. www.southtownchurch.com

MEMORY LANE

The auto industry has undergone many changes and advances, from higher output engines to aluminum bodied trucks. One constant is the updating of equipment and technology to diagnose, fix and restore automobiles. AJ's Automotive in Canton just finished an expansion of their business on the West side of Canton, growing to 19,000 square feet.

The C-Hawk Coffee Shop was changed quite a bit this year, with all the new regulations. Many yummy and sugary snacks were eliminated like certain muffins, cookies, and cappuccinos, although adults and high school students can still purchase latte's and coffee but these drinks can no longer be sold to the students in the middle school.

The Canton C-Hawk wrestling team has had a busy week as they participated in the Floyd Farrand Holiday Tourney on Monday and Tuesday December 29-30 at Sioux Falls Lincoln and then on Saturday the 3rd the Hawks traveled to Salem for the McCook Central/Montrose wrestling tourney with both tourneys hosted 17 teams with Canton finishing 5th at the Floyd and 4th at MCM.

The street light problem has not yet been solved and our city has made a proposition to the city. If it were not for the snow which has covered the ground for several weeks it would have been exceedingly dark part of the time.

There has been good sledding this winter and many of the farmers have been using bobs who have not used them before in several years. A good deal of grain and a good many loads of hogs have been marketed while the hauling was easy and the price high.

The train service here has been very badly demoralized lately owing to the cold and snow.

W. D. Hoffman called in Tuesday and left us some silver to buy some lubricant for the printing machinery so that we might keep on getting out this weekly visitor which had been issued regularly for that past thirty-seven years.

HISTORY REVISITED (WINTER HUMOR EDITION)

By Gaynor Johnson

Reading humor is a good way to keep the cold temperatures of winter at bay and shorten the time before spring arrives again. Back in 2012 I purchased a book called "Fake Facts - Uncle John's Bathroom Reader". All the "facts" in this 224 page book were made up by the Bathroom Readers' Institute in Ashland, Oregon.

Some of these not real facts include The Origin of Canned Tuna, The Origin of Brunch, How to Make an Artificial Kidney and Liberace's Dressing Room Demands on his 1955 Concert Tour. It's all pretty silly stuff but it's a good antidote to all the bad news you hear on TV.

Since the Super Bowl is just a month away I will be using a piece about the very first game back in 1967. I'll also include the presidential order of succession that may surprise you. Happy reading as we settle into the first full week of 2025.

Excerpts from "Fake Facts"

Behind Super Bowl I

The Super Bowl was not always the near-national holiday of pomp, celebration and media mania it is today. In the first years, the Super Bowl was extremely low-key. The game came about when the two professional, regional football leagues, the NFL (New England Foot Ball League) and AFL (All-West Football League), merged into one. Here are some little-known facts about it.

- The Los Angeles Rams of the AFL faced off against the Cleveland Steamer of the NFL. Back then, football was more of a kicking game, not a passing and touchdown game. This is reflected in Super Bowl I's final score: 9 to 6, Los Angeles.

- All nine of the Rams' points were scored by kicker Don Simmons, who was named the game's Most Valuable Player. This is the only time a kicker would be a Super Bowl MVP.

- Today it's held at a giant stadium that's neutral to each of the two teams, and usually in a warm climate. In 1967 league organizers contacted the operators of 12 league-affiliated stadiums. All turned them down, so it was played on the football field at Cal State Fullerton.

- The first Super Bowl Sunday - December 23, 1967 - was a Wednesday.

- Only 9,000 fans showed up.

- Food vendors didn't even bother to set up shop for the day. The only food available were individual-size boxes of Grape Nuts provided by the game's sponsor, Post.

- It wasn't televised, but it was available on the radio in only Los Angeles and Cleveland. A 15-minute recap show aired on NBC affiliates in a handful of cities (which included Los Angeles, but not Cleveland).

- Today, the post-Super Bowl spot on TV is used to launch new TV series or present special episodes of existing shows. Airing after the 15-minute recap was a made-for-TV movie version of The Shoemaker and the Elves.

- The halftime entertainment, today a spectacle centered around a major pop or rock star, was more restrained in 1967: The Fullerton Baptist Church Men's Choir sang Christmas carols.

- Pre-game entertainment included pop crooner Jack Jones singing the national anthem, a skit by the cast of The Gary Moore Show, and a Frisbee-throwing contest for children.

The Presidential Order of Succession, Farther Down The Line

In the event of a catastrophe that rendered the U.S. President and Vice President unable to lead, there's a presidential order of succession. The list goes far deeper than the 18 positions (speaker of the House of Representatives, cabinet secretaries, etc.) commonly listed in trivia books.

As we explore our accomplishments for 2024, we are looking forward to 2025 here at the Library. The things we do well we hope to continue, and if there are things we can do better, we will. We are proud to serve our patrons, and always willing to go the extra mile to make certain they receive the service they deserve.

You may have heard, the governor has proposed budget cuts to the State Library, and these will directly affect the Canton Public Library. The state library manages the digital library we offer to our patrons, without that central coordination, South Dakota Titles To Go, Libby, may suffer, as well as the Interlibrary Loan Service we provide, borrowing titles from other libraries, to save money. There are other services provided by the State Library that as a single entity we cannot afford to offer our patrons, but collectively the State Library is able to offer those things. Please contact your local legislators to make certain they know the effects these budget cuts will have on your local library.

100 Years Ago This Month:

Historical events from January 1925

The month of January has been home to many historical events over the years. Here's a look at some that helped to shape the world in January 1925.

- Christiania, the capital city of Norway, is renamed "Oslo" on January 1.

- Violence plagues Italy on January 2 as part of the fallout of Benito Mussolini's crackdown on opposition newspapers. Though King Victor Emmanuel III refuses to grant Mussolini the dictatorial powers the latter requested, he grants the Prime Minister tacit permission to respond to the violence he sees fit.

- Nellie Tayloe Ross is inaugurated as the Governor of Wyoming on January 5, becoming the first woman elected to a gubernatorial office in United States history.

- Bhanupratap Deo is proclaimed as the new Raja of the princely state of Kanpur within British India on January 8. The 3-year-old would rule until 1947, when the princely states are abolished as India gains its independence.

- The British submarine HMS L24 sinks in the English channel on January 10. The submarine had collided with the Royal Navy battleship HMS Resolution, killing all 43 men aboard the L24.

- Al Capone survives an assassination attempt made by the North Side Gang on January 12 in Chicago. Capone was conducting business inside a State Street restaurant when the rival gang riddled his car with bullets, prompting the mobster to order a bulletproof Cadillac.

- Joseph Stalin fires Leon Trotsky

as Commissar for Military and Navy Affairs on January 15. A prominent critic of Stalin, Trotsky is eventually murdered at his home in Mexico City by a Stalinist agent in 1940.

Is buying a home always the right move?

It's widely thought that home ownership is a key to building wealth — but is it? And should you consistently make sacrifices to buy your own home?

Let's start with the first question: Is owning a home essential to building wealth? It would probably be more accurate to say that home ownership can be helpful in building wealth. Building home equity — essentially, the difference between the size of your home's value and what you still owe — is certainly valuable. Plus, the bigger your equity, the less you might have to take out in a new mortgage if you ever want to buy a different home.

Now for the next question: How much should you sacrifice to buy your own home? This isn't an easy question to answer because buying a home isn't just a financial issue — it's also an emotional one. Many people simply like the feeling of owning a home. If you fall into this category, you might be willing to make many sacrifices to join the ranks of homeowners.

However, if you're relatively young and you are part of a single or even a dual-income household, you may well find that your other priorities are more important than home ownership, at least for the moment. These priorities can include paying off student loans, reducing other debts, paying for child care, meeting health care costs and even saving for retirement. With all these expenses, you might not be able to take on a big mortgage, along with real estate taxes, homeowners' insurance and the inevitable but costly repairs that come with owning a home.

In addition to the danger of becoming "house poor" by paying too high a percentage of your income on your mortgage, you could face another issue by sinking too much money into your home — and that's liquidity. A home is much more illiquid than savings or investment accounts, so if you needed money in a hurry, and most of yours was tied up in your home, you might be in a jam. You could tap into your home equity through a loan or a line of credit, but that's basically taking on even more debt, though these loans and credit lines typically offer lower interest rates than other forms of borrowing.

So, here's the bottom line: You don't need to feel that you are missing out on a chance to build wealth by not buying a home immediately — especially if you would feel extremely stretched by the mortgage payments, given how expensive homes are today. You won't hurt yourself — and, in fact, you'll likely help yourself — by taking care of your most pressing priorities first.

Of course, this doesn't mean that you can never become a homeowner. If you would still like to own a home someday, you could start saving for a down payment, keeping the money in a liquid, low-risk account. Just as importantly, though, you should plan on how owning a home can fit into your budget and how it will affect your cash flow. If you can manage it, you may indeed find that there's no place like home.

OFF The Road With Jerry

Back in the 1970's of Canton there was another tradition done every beginning of the new year. This tradition died out a long time ago here. It was a generous assortment of gifts given out to the family who had the First Baby of the year.

This was a baby crib blanket given away. This must have been a chamber of commerce generous set of gifts and local business helped contribute.

This is a MUM plant given away by a drug store.

This a 1927 Canton ad showing a well dressed man holding a big resolution book in 1928. We used to hear a lot about New Year Promises and Resolutions thru the past years, but not as much these days.

What I'm looking forward to this year

January 3, 2025

Over the past four years, Americans have been burdened by the results of the Biden Administration's policies, like an open border, high inflation, mandates that are increasingly difficult to meet for energy production, vehicle emissions, health care, firearms, and more.

When I travel around South Dakota, the one comment I hear from most people is they are struggling to make ends meet due to high prices. Since President Biden took office, I have voted against more than $13 trillion in progressive spending. Unfortunately, those spending plans passed with Democrat support and handed the bill to American families who are now paying more than $13,000 per year to buy the same goods, compared to four years ago. The President and Congress cannot spend beyond our means.

I'm optimistic for change. In a few short weeks, Congress and the Trump Administration will put conservative policies back in place. We'll secure the border, restore fiscal sanity, extend Trump's tax cuts, get tough on China, and make government more efficient.

Here are a few things I'm looking forward to in 2025:

Border security: More than ten million illegal immigrants have entered our country since January 2021. It's time to finish the border wall, increase Border Patrol, and reimplement Trump-era policies like Remain in Mexico to prevent more individuals from entering illegally.

Fiscal sanity: Congress and the White House must work together to cut unnecessary federal spending. I've worked with Members of Congress to pass a spending package that cut spending for the first time in over a decade. While it didn't bring the budget to where it needs to be, there is power in incrementalism, and I look forward to making more aggressive cuts to government spending.

China: It's clear the Chinese Communist Party is not backing down from targeting America. Just this week, Chinese government hackers breached the U.S. Treasury Department looking for information on which Chinese companies may be designated for sanctions. China's aggression cannot continue to go unchecked. We can't allow them to continue to bully America. As a member of the Select Committee on China, I'm in a unique position to work with President Trump to protect America from our adversary.

Making government more efficient: The Biden Administration's bloated approach to bureaucracy—from spending to government programs to regulations—is coming to an end. I'm excited for the Department of Government Efficiency (DOGE) and my role as part of the DOGE Caucus in the House to cut spending, reform welfare, cut regulations, and streamline government programs.

I'm expectant for a conservative House, Senate, and White House, that are aligned on policies to improve our economy, boost domestic production, lower prices for families, and make America a safer place.

Working Together for Safer Communities

By: Secretary Robert Perry

January 3, 2025

January serves as National Human Trafficking Prevention Month, an important time for reflection, awareness, and action. This month is a solemn reminder of the urgent need to protect the most vulnerable among us from one of the most insidious crimes in our society. Today, I want to speak directly to you about what this means for us and how we can all make a difference.

Before becoming the Secretary of the Department of Public Safety (DPS), I dedicated over 30 years to various law enforcement roles, having the honor of working with many committed professionals. During this time, I witnessed firsthand the devastating impact of human trafficking on individuals, families, and entire communities. I have met survivors who carry the heavy burden of their experiences and collaborated with dedicated teams to bring traffickers to justice.

Human trafficking often occurs right in front of us, hidden in plain sight. It's not just something that occurs in big cities or faraway places. Trafficking can occur in any community, with no regard to class, race, or other social factors.

Traffickers use our interstate highways as inconspicuous routes to travel across the country, making it easier to carry out their illegal activities while evading detection. They exploit people's vulnerabilities, whether it be financial hardship, addiction, homelessness, or simply a lack of family support. They prey on the trusting nature of individuals and communities, turning lives upside down for their own profit.

Each trafficking victim is someone's child, sibling, or friend. They deserve a future free from fear, exploitation, and harm. And it is all of our responsibility to ensure that future.

The fight against human trafficking begins with awareness. Recognizing the signs can save lives. For example, if you notice someone who seems unusually fearful, withdrawn, or controlled by another person; if they have bruises, appear malnourished, or cannot speak freely; or if they are living or working in conditions that seem unsafe or unsanitary, these could all be indicators of trafficking. Trust your instincts and reach out to the authorities. Your vigilance could make all the difference.

It's equally important to educate our children and young people about the dangers of trafficking. Open conversations about online safety, healthy relationships, and recognizing manipulative behaviors are crucial in preventing exploitation. In today's digital age, traffickers often use social media to lure unsuspecting victims. Let's make sure our children know how to stay safe and seek help when they need it. There are many great online resources that can help guide you to creating a safer online experience for your family.

Our state has resources in place to combat this issue, but we cannot do it alone. I encourage you to partner with local organizations, churches, and community groups that are already doing incredible work to support survivors and raise awareness. Consider volunteering your time, donating to reputable anti-trafficking initiatives, or simply sharing information to spread the word.

If you suspect human trafficking, please do not hesitate to report it. The National Human Trafficking Hotline is available 24/7 at 1-888-373-7888 or by texting 233733. All calls are confidential, and you can remain anonymous. Every report matters, and every call could save a life.

Together, as neighbors and as a community, we can create an environment where traffickers find no foothold and where every individual can thrive without fear. Let's stand united this January and beyond, committing to protect the vulnerable, support survivors, and bring traffickers to justice.

Robert Perry is the Cabinet Secretary for the South Dakota Department of Public Safety.

Let's Get to Work

By Sen. John Thune

On January 3, the new Republican majorities in the U.S. Senate and House of Representatives were sworn in and I officially took over as Senate majority leader, and in a few weeks President Trump will take the oath of office. We have our work cut out for us to get this country back on the right track, and we are not wasting any time getting to work.

Much of the work we have to do is addressing the damage that the Biden administration has done over the last four years. We will need to secure the border, and that means providing the funding needed to execute the strong border policies we can expect from President Trump on day one. We will also need to lift some of the burdensome and expensive government regulations that have held our economy back.

Then of course we need to extend the tax relief Republicans delivered during the first Trump administration and pass an overdue farm bill with updated programs for farmers and ranchers that reflect current agricultural needs. And we will need to invest in military readiness, a task that has only grown more important as the world has grown less stable in recent years.

There's a lot of important work to get done, and the Republican Congress and the Trump administration will work hard to deliver. I'm humbled by the trust that my colleagues have put in me to lead this Senate Republican majority, and I will work every day to be worthy of that trust.

Of course, I find myself in this position first and foremost because of the trust that the people of South Dakota have placed in me. Without that trust, I would not have had the opportunity to serve at all, let alone serve as majority leader of the United States Senate. And my first priority will always be to serve South Dakota.

I'm proud to be a son of small-town South Dakota. Growing up in Murdo I learned the character of South Dakotans – the work ethic, the commitment to freedom coupled with a belief in personal responsibility, the sense of responsibility to the broader community. As a kid, I knew that if a roof collapsed under the weight of snow, or a windstorm came through and wiped out a barn, or we lost a friend or family member, the whole community would rally around to help. And that same attitude is reflected in towns across our state.

The South Dakota values I learned growing up helped shape my political philosophy: my belief that government should be limited, and that it is best when it's closest to the people; that freedom is a sacred gift and must be defended; that with freedom comes responsibility; and that while government is necessary, government is not where we should look for salvation.

I'm grateful for the opportunity to serve and for the South Dakota values that guide my service. I also owe a debt of gratitude to my family: to my parents Harold and Pat, to my wife Kimberley, and to my two daughters and their families. And I thank God, who has richly blessed me in every way. Now let's get to work.

Pursuant to SDCL Chapter 49-41B, the South Dakota Public Utilities Commission (Commission) will hold public input meetings at the above times and places on an application filed by SCS Carbon Transport LLC (Applicant) to construct a carbon dioxide (CO₂) transmission pipeline (Project). The Project, which has been named the Midwest Carbon Express pipeline, is approximately 2,500 miles of pipelines for the transportation of CO₂ from ethanol plants across 5 states, including 15 in South Dakota, to sequestration sites in North Dakota. The main line of the proposed route enters South Dakota in Lincoln County at the Iowa/South Dakota border and extends in a northwesterly direction, exiting the state at the South Dakota/North Dakota border in McPherson County. Major components and associated facilities planned in South Dakota are expected to include pump stations, main line valves, launcher-receiver sites, and approximately 16 total miles of temporary and permanent access roads as part of the Project. In addition to the main line and other components, the proposed Project includes lateral and trunk lines connecting ethanol plants throughout the eastern part of South Dakota to the main line. The total proposed length of pipelines through South Dakota is approximately 698 miles and will cross the counties of Beadle, Brookings, Brown, Clark, Codington, Davison, Edmunds, Grant, Hamlin, Hand, Hyde, Kingsbury, Lake, Lincoln, McCook, McPherson, Minnehaha, Miner, Sanborn, Spink, Sully, Turner, and Union. Applicant estimates the total cost of the proposed Project in South Dakota to be $1,351,563,747.

The purpose of the public input meetings will be to hear public comments regarding the permit Application and the Project. At the meetings, Applicant will present a brief description of the Project, after which interested persons may appear and present their views, comments, and questions regarding the Application. A copy of the Application is on file with the auditor in each of the above listed counties pursuant to SDCL 49-41B and at the Commission's office in Pierre. The Application and all other documents in the docket, including detailed maps of the Project, may be accessed on the Commission's website at puc.sd.gov under Commission Actions, Commission Dockets, 2024 Hydrocarbon and Carbon Dioxide Pipeline Dockets, HP24-001.

Pursuant to SDCL 49-41B-17, the parties to this proceeding are currently the Applicant and the Commission Staff. Each municipality, county, and governmental agency in the area where the facility is proposed to be sited; or any person residing in the area where the facility is proposed to be sited; or any directly interested person, may be granted party status in this proceeding by making timely written application to the Commission. Applications for party status will be available at the public input meetings or may be obtained from the Commission's website. Applications for party status must be received by the Commission on or before 5:00 p.m., CT, January 24, 2025. The Commission will also accept comments in writing from anyone, either by mail, personal delivery, or e-mail until the time of the final decision. You only need to apply for party status if you want to participate formally in the case by putting on testimony or other factual evidence, conducting discovery, cross-examining witnesses, making legal arguments, and to preserve your right to appeal to the courts if you do not believe the Commission's decision is legally correct. You do not need to have party status in order to submit written comments.

Following the public input meetings, the Commission may schedule a formal evidentiary hearing conforming to SDCL Chapter 1-26 to consider issues raised by any party or the Commission itself. At such a formal hearing, all parties will have the opportunity to appear, present evidence, and cross-examine the other parties' witnesses, and exercise all other rights afforded by SDCL Chapters 1-26, 49-1, and 49-41B and ARSD Chapters 20:10:01 and 20:10:22, including rights of appeal to the courts.

For approval, the Applicant must show that the proposed Project will comply with all applicable laws and rules, will not pose a threat of serious injury to the environment nor to the social and economic condition of inhabitants or expected inhabitants in the siting area, will not substantially impair the health, safety or welfare of the inhabitants, and will not unduly interfere with the orderly development of the region with due consideration having been given to the views of governing bodies of affected local units of government. Based upon these factors, the Commission will decide whether the permit to construct should be granted, denied, or granted upon such terms, conditions, or modifications of the construction, operation, or maintenance as the Commission finds appropriate.

Pursuant to SDCL 49-41B-28, a permit from the Commission for the construction of a transmission facility may supersede or preempt any county or municipal land use, zoning, or building rules, regulations, or ordinances upon a finding by the Commission that such rules, or regulation, or ordinances, as applied to the proposed route, are unreasonably restrictive in view of existing technology, factors of cost, or economics, or needs of parties where located in or out of the county or municipality. Without such a finding by the Commission, no route shall be designated which violates local land-use zoning, or building rules, or regulations, or ordinances.

Pursuant to the Americans with Disabilities Act, these meetings will be held in physically accessible locations. Please contact the Public Utilities Commission at (605) 773-3201 at least 48 hours prior to the meeting if you have special needs so arrangements can be made to accommodate you.

Sportstalk

By Rich Beitzel

It is a sad day when the NFL season ends and now there is nothing to do on the weekends so it better start getting warmer so I can go out golfing soon. Oh I guess there are a few more games going on which they call the playoffs but I do hope all your teams can win games for you.....wait I don't mean everyone's team maybe a couple teams or maybe this can be the first year no team wins a game but either way my team won't be winning anymore games this year. I might have to talk to a few of you and see how you handle this maybe like Cowboy fans or something like that!!!! Ok seriously this should be a good playoff with some teams that haven't been here for awhile but all said and done there is a good chance a team could win their first superbowl game ever which would be kind of fun to see so that's what I am cheering for and that everybody will be happy and world peace will come from a new superbowl champion. Sorry I fell off the topic but I will try to get back on it sometime. Go Braves because it is now baseball season!!!!

The wrestlers will be off to Lyman County this weekend for the Mid Dakota Monster Tournament and it's a 2 day tourney on Friday and Saturday with the girl wrestlers joining in on Saturday and it all means that there will be no extra seats in the gym Saturday afternoon so get there early and save me a seat. Lots of good wrestling there and it is a good way to see where we are at as we head into the 2nd half of the wrestling season. Both teams got big wins this weekend when the girls won the MCM Invitational on Friday night and then the boys won it Saturday so great weekend of Canton wrestling so lets keep it up this weekend.
