Canton Chamber of Commerce Annual Meeting

Last Thursday night, amidst the busyness of school sports and federal transitions of power, the finest of Canton's business owners gathered for a night of celebration. Another year in the books for our fair town - the good, the bad and the soaking wet - and all was reminisced over savory dishes and dips, and delicious desserts and delicacies.

Stories and laughter welcomed all into the evening. Business and numbers aside, the true heart of the meeting began. As we all know and must strive to more deeply appreciate, it is the people that make the town a community. The small and sometimes unseen consistencies; the wave from the window at a passer-by, the extra hand to the car, the listening ear at the check out - as we chat about the good and the bad... and the remarkable heroes from our town that emerged during the soaking wet.

Our small corner of southeast SD has heart, and this summer as our town endured an enormous deluge of water, people showed up with what they had to offer to keep the town afloat. And from these already amazing Cantonites emerged some special mentions...

Organization of the Year 2024 was awarded to the Canton Fire Department. With gratitude the Chamber voted these incredible men, mostly volunteers to be recognized for their faithful service. Sadly the firefighters were unable to attend the meeting, so a few retired faithful accepted the award on their behalf.

Business of the Year 2024 was awarded to the newly expanded Sunshine Foods. On top of the massive undertaking to renovate the store, Darin Hill and team spared no expense to ensure the town had drinking water and other supplies during the flood week and beyond. The updated and substantially enlarged footprint of the store has brought some life and treasure-hunt like fun to grocery shopping in our sweet town. With humble thanks and deep appreciation we applaud Team Sunshine Foods for Business of the Year.

And finally, the cherry on the top, the pinnacle of Canton awards - Citizens of the Year 2024 - Paul and Kim Sogn. As Coach Swenson read the accolades and stories from Canton souls blessed by these two incredible people such as "I was reminded of my own (first) encounter with Paul. I was new to town, and was unable to attend my father's funeral. With incredible compassion not expected from strangers, Paul delivered a gift to my door with his deepest sympathies. I don't remember what arrangement arrived but I certainly remember the compassion with which the gift was delivered." And so each story goes - Paul and Kim have blessed this community for decades with their thoughtful, selfless giving, from commemorative flags honoring our town's soldiers, to special deliveries filled with grace and compassion. We are blessed to have folks such as these among us.

Paul and Kim Sogn were awarded the 2024 Citizens of the Year. Sogns were so surprised it left Kim speechless.

As the evening dwindled to a close, and the raucous laughter quieted to a few remaining conversations, I reflected on what a joy it is to have the freedom to celebrate together... to rejoice in each other's successes, recognize our incredible community members, and hold fast together in a challenging but bond-forging year. The Chamber Meeting 2024 marks the end of one remarkable year for our resilient town... and we eagerly anticipate what 2025 will bring.

Alan Braaten found a picture of his father Nels on a motorcycle and the original bill of sale. This started his hunt for where his father purchased this Harley and the history of the dealership. Vikings Motors was located at the corner of Seventh and Lincoln in downtown Canton. Nels purchased his 1947 Harley on October 14, 1950 for a total price of $350.00.

Braaten continued his hunt at the Canton Public Library and looking through old Sioux Valley Newspapers for more information on this Viking Motors. Some of the ads and stories are shared below of what was found.

When Bidwell sold their building and were in the process of cleaning it out, Alan found a heavy black piece on the ground. He picked it up and brushed it off a little bit. After hours of cleaning and polishing, he found a brass Vikings Motor plaque. After all those years, it was with great luck he found this in mix of all the dust and grease.

Viking Motors started up in the beginning of 1947 in a remodeled building a half-block west of the Farmers Lumber Yard. Paul Anderson and Luther Molberg owned and sold the cars. Mechanic Glen Gifford was in charge of the repair shop.

File Bankruptcy Petition Against Paul O. Anderson

Viking Motors Closed; Proceeding Filed in Federal Court Saturday
A petition alleging bankruptcy of Paul O. Anderson, doing business as Viking Motors in Canton, was filed in federal court in Sioux Falls Saturday by three creditors.

The garage and automobile sales agency was closed Monday. Anderson said Tuesday that he intends to remain in Canton and will file an answer to the petition within the next few days.

The creditors' petition was filed Saturday in federal court by Wayne Johnson of Canton, Wendell Unverzagt of Sioux Falls and Mrs. Ole Hammer of Mitchell.

Allege Debts of $88,000

The petition alleged that Anderson, doing business as Viking Motors, has debts of approximately $88,000 and listed debts totaling $8,869.96 as allegedly owning the three petitioners.

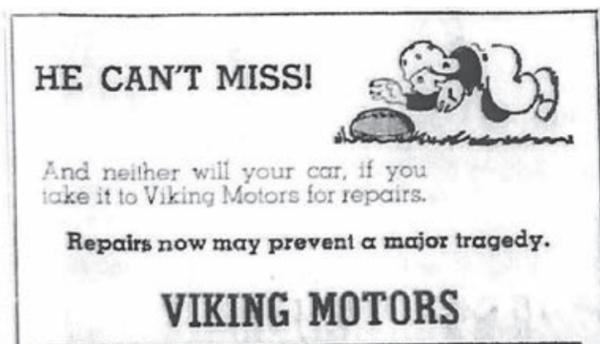

Tuesday Anderson declined to estimate his assets but said he would make a statement soon regarding them.

In the petition filed Saturday Mrs. Hammer said there was a debt to her of $4,919, unpaid balance on a $7,000 promissory note made in October, 1948; Unverzagt said the debt to him is $2,000 for an automobile delivered as down payment on a new Hudson car not yet delivered; and Johnson said there is a debt to him for $1,950 for an automobile delivered as a down payment on a new Pontiac car not yet delivered.

Allege Acts of Bankruptcy

Two acts of bankruptcy were alleged in the petition, which stated that while insolvent, Anderson conveyed by warranty deed the premises of the Viking Motors to the National Bank of South Dakota in reduction of past indebtedness to the bank or as collateral security for such indebtedness and that while insolvent he transferred to the bank in reduction of debt or as collateral for indebtedness personal property including 22 used cars, four demonstrator cars, and farm machinery implements including a stock of Massey-Harris parts and car parts.

The Viking Motors firm was started by Anderson in November, 1947, on East Sixth Street and in January 1948, it was moved to its present building at Seventh and Lincoln Streets. During the course of the operation Anderson had several partners in the business but operated it as individual for the past year and a half.

The record for attendance at a National Championship meet was broken as thousands of spectators gathered two miles east of Canton to witness the event. After overcoming considerable obstacles, organizers from Canton hosted a ski jumping tournament featuring the finest jumpers in the nation on February 11-12, 1925. The event was witnessed by 15,000 spectators and it came on the heels of the first winter Olympics held in Franc.

With the entire nation embracing the sports of ski jumping and cross country skiing there were pictures and drawings of skiers on the covers of dozens of magazines and newspapers across the country. As a publicity stunt, the National Ski Association, along with Congressmen from Minnesota and South Dakota, presented a pair of skis to President Calvin Coolidge at the White House while the national media snapped pictures.

Five years ago this spring the proposition to accept a gift of $10,000 for a public library in Canton was voted down and we believe the majority acted against the best interests of our city in so doing. We are reliably informed by Hon. Thos. Thorson that the offer is still open if the citizens of Canton wish to avail themselves of it, and we would like to see this accomplished. We feel sure that the requirement of spending one-tenth of this amount for yearly maintenance can easily be accomplished, and we need the library.

There continues to be much talk by those not satisfied with the action of the County Commissioners in their arrangement with ex-Treasurer Naylor. It should be enough to say that the Commissioners demanded an additional bond to protect the County, and the only one they could get was the one they took from Naylor, secured by a mortgage upon all of Naylors property. A trial, costly to the tax payers, could achieve no more.

HISTORY REVISITED

By Gaynor Johnson

Feeling a little under the weather while I was preparing to write this, I was having a hard time coming up with a story to include. When I finally came across something to use it was getting close to the deadline so I will make this brief.

Since February arrives this Saturday and President's Day is observed annually on the third Monday of the month, I thought we'd take a look at how this holiday came to be and our very first president. I'll be using information from the 2025 Old Farmer's Almanac founded by Robert B. Thomas in 1792. Happy reading and enjoy the warm weather they are forecasting for this final week of January.

Presidents' Day History

Historically, Americans began celebrating George Washington's Birthday just months after his death, long before Congress declared it a federal holiday. It was not until 1879, under President Rutherford B. Hayes, that Washington's Birthday became a legal holiday, to be observed on his birthday, February 22.

Washington's birthday was celebrated on February 22 until well into the 20th century. In 1968, Congress passed the Monday Holiday Law to "provide uniform annual observances of certain legal public holidays on Mondays." By creating more 3-day weekends, Congress helped to "bring substantial benefits to both the spiritual and economic life of the Nation."

Today, Washington's Birthday is one of only 11 permanent holidays established by Congress observed each year. One of the great traditions followed for decades has been the reading of Washington's Farewell Address - which remains an annual event for the Senate to this day.

When Is George Washington's Real Birthday?

Although the federal holiday is held on a Monday (the third Monday of February), Washington's birthday is observed on February 22. To complicate matters, Washington was actually born on February 11 in 1731! How can that be?

Washington was originally born when the Julian calendar was in use. During Washington's lifetime, people in Great Britain and America switched the official calendar system for Julian to the Gregorian calendar (Something that most of Europe had already done in 1582).

As a result of this calendar reform, people born before 1752 were told to add 11 days to their birth dates. Those born between January 1 and March 25, as Washington was, also had to add one year to be in sync with the new calendar.

By the time Washington became president in 1789, he celebrated his birthday on February 22 and listed his year of birth as 1732.

To summarize, Washington's birthday changed from February 11, 1731 (Old-Style Julian calendar), to February 22, 1732 (New-Style Gregorian calendar).

Myths About Washington

Legend has it, Washington chopped down a cherry tree when he was 6 years old and, when confronted by his father, said, "I can not tell a lie. I did it with my hatchet."

Well, we can not tell a lie, either. Washington didn't say this; he didn't even chop down the tree! This tale was in fact concocted by Parson Mason Weems (1759-1825), one of Washington's biographers, who made up the story hoping to demonstrate Washington's honesty.

This tale is not the only myth about Washington. His wooden dentures? They weren't made of wood; they were made of hippopotamus teeth that had been filed down to fit into Washington's mouth.

South Dakota's Grit and Hospitality

By: Lt. Gov. Larry Rhoden
January 24, 2025

In 1925, a group of leaders had a vision. They wanted to create something in South Dakota so grand it would draw visitors from all over the world. And they were successful! This year, we celebrate 100 years of the establishment of Mount Rushmore National Memorial, an attraction so grand it brings millions of visitors to our state each year. But people don't just visit South Dakota for our Shrine of Democracy. They come back because of our people. Our South Dakota spirit helps them make a connection with our people, and our natural beauty satisfies their want for adventure and exploration.

South Dakota's tourism industry is a big reason why we have been so successful, and 2024 was a big year for tourism! We once again broke the record for most new visitors to our state: 14.9 million. In fact, we broke this record every year but one since Kristi Noem has been our governor, which is a testament to her leadership and ability to tell South Dakota's story.

Those visitors spread out to all corners of our great state. 8.7 million people hiked, biked, camped, and enjoyed our great parks system, 11% more than the year before. And 3.8 million travelers explored a National Park. These visitors help make life just a little bit better for us here in South Dakota. Thanks to tourism, South Dakota households pay $1,100 less in taxes! When you add it all up, South Dakota's efforts in 2024 resulted in visitor spending of more than five billion dollars. This is also a new record! And one out of every 11 jobs in South Dakota is supported by the tourism industry, which keeps South Dakota families strong.

So how is a state with less than one million people finding such great success? Simple – the South Dakotans who work in the tourism industry are always thinking up new and innovative ways to attract visitors. And when they come, we give travelers a one-of-a-kind experience to keep them coming back.

We appreciate the wonder of our great outdoors and take steps to maintain it. Travel South Dakota created the Forever 605 code to help folks "Explore all points on the map, and not overcrowd just a few of them. To travel far, but shop local. To embrace the moment, but respect the past. To let the wild be wild – and keep nature in nature. To give just as much to the 605 state as this place will give to you."

Our people's grit and South Dakota's hospitality make us an incredible place to visit. We are blessed to live here and fortunate that we get to share our state with others. And to all the South Dakotans working in the tourism industry, keep up the great work!

We hope you are surviving the wintry weather that January brings to South Dakota. There is no better way to do that than with a delightful book, and we have many here at the Library!

We want to thank all the patrons who came to the Coffee Talk with Senator Kevin Jensen, Representative Richard Vasgaard, and South Dakota Library Association President Elizabeth Fox. The legislators explained how the proposed budget cuts go through the legislative process and invited us to contact all elected state officials on what these proposed cuts would mean to our library and libraries across the state. Elizabeth Fox explained how the State Library supports libraries and the implicated costs we would incur if these budget cuts were passed. Be sure to attend the Cracker Barrel session on Saturday, February 1 at the Canton Depot at 10:00 am and make your voice heard by the elected officials.

Letter to the Editor

To the Editor and the Canton and Lincoln County community,

I'm writing today to encourage the community to contact your local legislatures and urge them to not vote for Governor Noem's purposed budget cut of the public library system.

Our State Library plays a vital role in ensuring all South Dakotans have access to high-quality information. And in this digital world, access to reliable resources is key for education, job seeking and lifelong learning. The State Library also facilitates collaborations between libraries and schools, improving resource sharing and expanding the reach of both institutions.

Individual libraries across our state face significant challenges in affording the ever-increasing costs of essential databases. These resources, such as Ancestry, World Book, and Libby, provide invaluable access to research materials, educational tools, and job search assistance. The State Library's ability to negotiate favorable contracts and leverage state and federal funding allows us to secure these resources at a fraction of the cost individual libraries would incur.

The State Library ensures equity of access. Rural communities and underserved populations often lack the resources to independently provide information services. By partnering with the State Library, these communities gain access to the same high-quality resources as the larger, more populous communities.

Beyond literacy, the State Library fosters partnerships that enrich the lives of our citizens. The State Park Pass Program, for example, promotes both literacy and recreation by encouraging families to explore our beautiful state parks.

The State Library is an investment in our future. Without its support, our libraries would face crippling costs, severely impacting students, job seekers, and educators across South Dakota. Free online information is often incomplete, unreliable, or biased. We deserve access to the best information available, and the State Library is essential to achieving this goal.

Finally, and I think most importantly, our State Library provides free accreditation, oversight, and professional development to librarians, ensuring the highest standards of service across the state. And without these accreditations, public libraries cannot receive grants for the vital programs that they offer to all community members across the state.

I thank you for your time and again urge you to contact your local legislators and tell them we want to continue to support our State Library.

Sincerely,
Molly Heath

Windmill Of My Mind

by Margaret Schultz

I told Bob I was going to go upstairs and try to write a column. "You aren't going to write about underwear again, are you?" he queried after last week's poor attempt at writing. I shrugged. "Depends," I said, "On if I can think of something else to write about."

Okay, so that conversation didn't really happen, but it could have. This week I have a more fascinating topic to talk about: Diets I have tried and hated and failed at.

When I was in high school in the late 50's, early 60's, I really didn't have a weight problem. I thought I did because most of my friends were thinner than I was. Nowadays, it is permissible to have muscles in your legs. Back then, it was not; at least not muscles that showed. I had pronounced thigh muscles because I rode my bike a lot. Anyway, somewhere I came across a diet recipe that some Hollywood movie star used that I decided I wanted to try. I cannot remember what all it had in it except for olive oil. My mother, who was as thin as a pencil, thought I was nuts, but went along with my experiment. As I drank the concoction, I started to gag and made a bee line to the bathroom, where I did lose the contents of my stomach. My mother laughed until I thought she would pass out. I rode my bike more and sometimes walked home from school, which was two miles away. My muscles got more noticeable.

I cannot tell you what my next diet was, but when our kids were pretty young, a doctor from Sioux Falls prescribed a pill which was very effective. I basically ate one chicken breast a day or poached fish (ugh), and slimmed down a lot. I decided to get some blond highlights in my hair, but the beautician (no one around here) turned me into a total blonde and not a very pretty shade of yellow, I might add. I bought bell bottom pants, got platform sandals and I looked like a floosie. I was very happy when I grew out of that stage. That was definitely not me.

When I was about forty, I lost enough weight to be in a style show in Orchestra Hall in Minneapolis. The minute I got home from that experience, I baked some cookies for "the kids" and nibbled my way back up the scale.

The other day, I saw an ad that said you could rub an apple peel on your belly for weight loss. That made me laugh. I think my mother, up in Heaven, was laughing too. I'm not going to try that, because then I would have to do way too much laundry. And how would you keep the peels on your skin? Tape them On?

So, am I satisfied with how I look? No. But do I accept myself now? Better than I did. I mean, if God can accept me, why can't I accept me?

Now, if you will excuse me, I am going to go have an apple - but I will throw out the peels - that diet doesn't a-peel to me at all.

New Year's Resolution: Planning for the Future

As we welcome a new year, it's a time for reflection and setting new goals, often centered around self-improvement, health, and family. However, one aspect of life that often gets overlooked is planning for the future—particularly in terms of end-of-life arrangements. For veterans and their families, this planning is critical, not just for peace of mind but for accessing the benefits that veterans have earned through their service to our country.

One essential area of planning that veterans and their families should focus on is pre-need burial benefits. These benefits are available through the United States and South Dakota Departments of Veterans Affairs and can help alleviate the financial burden of funeral and burial costs. Pre-need planning ensures that these benefits are secured in advance, making it easier for loved ones to navigate a difficult time.

Pre-need planning is the process of arranging your burial, funeral, and related services ahead of time. For veterans, the benefits available through the VA include burial in a national, state, or tribal cemetery, financial assistance for funeral expenses, and even a headstone or marker, among other services.

It's also crucial to ensure that all relevant documents are collected and stored in a safe and accessible place. These include discharge papers (DD-214), VA identification, and proof of military service. Keeping copies of these documents in an organized manner will expedite the process when burial benefits are needed.

Veterans should discuss and record their preferred burial locations, funeral service providers, and any specific wishes for their ceremony.

Having open, ongoing discussions about these important topics will help ensure that everything is in order when the time comes. While it can be a difficult subject to discuss, having these conversations can ultimately provide peace of mind, knowing that the future is planned for in a way that aligns with both the veteran's wishes and their family's needs.

This New Year, one meaningful resolution is to act on pre-need planning for burial benefits. Veterans and their loved ones can rest assured knowing that when the time comes, they have a clear plan, and the appropriate resources and benefits are in place.

We encourage all veterans and their families to connect with their local county or tribal veterans service offices for assistance or reach out to the staff at the South Dakota Department of Veterans Affairs at 605-333-6869. Our team is here to help you learn more about the benefits available to you.

South Dakota Department of

you'll want to evaluate yours when constructing your 401(k) portfolio.

• Adjust your portfolio as needed. It's a good idea to review your 401(k)'s investment mix at least once a year to see if it's performing as you'd hoped. But be patient — one "down" year doesn't necessarily mean you must make changes. However, as you approach retirement, you may want to lower the risk level of your 401(k) by moving some of your dollars into more conservative vehicles. Still, even when you're retired and have started drawing money from your 401(k), you might want to keep some growth potential in it to help you stay ahead of inflation.

By contributing what you can afford to your 401(k), and by carefully managing the investments within your plan, you can help maximize the value of this powerful retirement savings vehicle — and give yourself a key asset to help you enjoy your retirement years.

NEW AND PAST BUSINESS STORES

This is the old dime store building on the northeast corner of 5th and Broadway. This building has hosted dozens of past businesses since the early 1900's. This 2009 picture shows a grand opening of another Antique Store and the ribbon cutting of it's opening with the Chamber of Commerce and many friends and family. It was to be called "The Painted Lady."

On the left side is Vicky Mulder, the new operator at this Antique store, along with her husband Myron. Claus Hendricks, senior member of the Hendricks Rental and Buildings, is on the right. Claus ran the store himself for 10 years, with the help of Larry Atwood. Larry rented another building in the same block and became the "RARE Necessities Antiques" and Larry is still running it today. There are 4 apartments in the second story that are rented out by Hendricks.

Now this building in October of 2024 is a new business again. It is a second hand and antique store called "Lettuce Sell your Stuff" which is a consignment store and means let us sell your stuff. It has furniture, tools, machines, books and just a large variety of everything.

In late 2024 this new business opened on the south east corner of 5th and Main. This is another original Main Street building. This location has held dozens of past businesses since the 1890's. It was a drugstore and cafe in the 1940's, 50's and 60's, it was Lena's Cafe. This front view on 5th street has a sign that says "THE PLUG Smoke and Vape." It is a tobacco shop and also has products used for vaping.

Financial Focus

You can put more into your 401(k) this year

Once you retire, you'll likely need to draw on a variety of financial sources — and one of the most important ones may be your 401(k). And for 2025, you can put even more money into your plan than ever.

You can invest in your 401(k) in one of two ways, depending on your employer's plan. With a traditional 401(k), you contribute pre-tax dollars, which can lower your taxable income, and your money can grow tax deferred. If you have a Roth 401(k) option, you can contribute after-tax dollars, which aren't deductible, but your eventual withdrawals will be tax-free if you've had your account at least five years and you're at least 59½.

For either a traditional or Roth 401(k), as well as similar plans such as a 457(b) (for government employees) or a 403(b) (for educators and employees of some nonprofit groups), the contribution limit has increased by $500 for 2025, to $23,500. If you're 50 or older, you can contribute an additional $7,500, for a total of $31,000. And under the SECURE 2.0 legislation, if you are between 60 and 63, you have a higher catch-up contribution — $11,250, instead of $7,500, for a total of $34,750.

If you can afford to contribute the full amount to your 401(k) or similar plan, consider doing so. Of course, not everyone is in that position. If you're a younger worker, you may well have other financial obligations, such as paying off student loans. And even if you've been in the workforce for a while, you may be putting away money for other things — such as your children's education — as well as your own retirement. But even if you can't "max out" on your 401(k), try to contribute at least enough to earn your employer's matching contribution, if one is offered.

Regardless of how much you contribute to your 401(k), consider these suggestions on managing the money within your plan:

• Create a portfolio that fits your risk tolerance. Most 401(k) plans offer up to a dozen investment options, while some plans offer many more. You obviously want to increase your 401(k) balance as much as possible, but that doesn't necessarily mean putting all your 401(k) dollars into the most aggressive funds available. Instead, consider spreading your 401(k) contributions among a range of investments, which can help you lower your risk level while still giving you opportunities for long-term growth. Everyone's risk tolerance is different, though, so

Defending Dignity and Celebrating Life

By Sen. John Thune

It was a privilege to be able to welcome tens of thousands of Americans to the nation's capital this month for the 52nd March for Life. It's an inspiring sight when the streets of Washington are packed with pro-life Americans from every corner of the country – when you look down the broad avenues and see signs held high and the smiles on people's faces as they march to defend and celebrate every human life.

Our country's founding document reads, "We hold these truths to be self-evident, that all men are created equal, that they are endowed by their Creator with certain unalienable rights, that among these are life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness." The founders recognized that life is a fundamental right, and the pro-life movement continues to carry that truth forward. They continue to be a voice for those who have no voice. They defend those who cannot defend themselves. They work to protect the smallest, weakest, and most vulnerable, and I commend them for their commitment.

It can often feel like an uphill battle defending life, but the annual march is proof that pro-life Americans are not alone. South Dakotans proved that in last year's election. Voters in our state stood for life in November by upholding our state's laws regarding abortion. I'm proud that South Dakota voters had the courage to be leaders in the defense of human life.

This month, the U.S. Senate held a vote on the Born-Alive Abortion Survivors Protection Act, a simple bill that would have required that a baby born alive after an attempted abortion be provided the same protection and medical care as any other newborn baby. It shouldn't be controversial, but Democrats can't seem to agree that a baby born after a failed abortion should be protected.

Democrats blocked this bill, obscuring their votes with vague justifications. But I think what it boils down to is this: Democrats fear that by recognizing the humanity of a newly born child, they may inadvertently point to the humanity of the unborn child. When you do that, it gets a little harder to say that same child wasn't human just a few moments ago because he or she hadn't been born.

There is still work to be done, but we in the pro-life movement have truth on our side. I believe that that truth will ultimately prevail and one day we will recognize the dignity of every human life and protect every human life. Until then, we march on.

Legislative Report

Karla Lems
REPRESENTATIVE

The Joint Appropriations Committee met on Thursday January 23 for a budget hearing from the Department of Corrections. Members of the committee asked some compelling questions regarding the proposed budget for the new men's correctional facility slated for construction in Lincoln County. HB 1025 will be the bill to watch regarding the authorization to construct a prison facility in Lincoln County and to appropriate the money for this purpose. This will take a 2/3 vote of both chambers. There are alternatives to this proposal, and the legislature controls the purse. Spending upwards of $1 billion with more in ongoing costs is not fiscally responsible, and I think we can do better. Contact the legislators on the House State Affairs and Joint Appropriations to weigh in with your thoughts on this project. You can find these legislators contact information at sdleislature.gov.

HB1066 "Revise residency requirements for the purposes of voter registration" introduced by Representative Tony Kayser of District 14 was passed out of the House State of Affairs Committee and will now wait to be heard in the House of Representatives. I was a yes vote on this issue and realize we do need better requirements than we have now. It requires individuals live in SD for 30 consecutive days to be able to register to vote. I brought a residency requirement bill in 2023, so I have believed for quite some time there is work to be done on this issue.

HJR 5003 proposes and submits to the voters at the next general election an amendment to the Constitution of the State of SD, requiring that a constitutional amendment receive an affirmative vote of sixty percent of the votes cast before the measure is enacted. The resolution passed in the House of Representatives 61 to 5.

There are two education bills to watch: HB1009 and HB 1020. Each of these bills present options regarding the establishment of education savings accounts.

I am the prime sponsor of HB 1052, which prohibits the exercise of eminent domain for a pipeline that carries carbon oxide. This bill, otherwise known as "The People's Bill," was passed out of the State Affairs committee 10-3 and will now go to a vote in the House of Representatives on Monday. The people have spoken, and it is time to give the key to the front door back to the property owners who are entitled to this right.

This week we will have Governor Rhoden address both chambers. A new Lieutenant Governor will be announced, and there will be a vote of the House and Senate to confirm. I welcome Governor Rhoden to his new role. May God bless and guide him in it.

The Sanctity of Life

BIG Update
Every year, thousands of babies are born alive after a failed attempted abortion, however, they don't all receive care they need to survive. It's truly tragic. This week, I voted to pass the Born-Alive Abortion Survivors Protection Act to require health care practitioners who are present preserve the life and health of the child born. Every child deserves a chance at life.

I recently earned an A+ rating by Susan B. Anthony's Pro-Life Scorecard for my votes and actions last Congress.

BIG Idea
For nearly 150 years, the Supreme Court has consisted of nine justices, but in recent years, the left has pushed for packing the court to add liberal justices under a Democrat president. I reintroduced my bill, "Keep the Nine," which would amend the Constitution to state that only nine justices are to serve on the Supreme Court.

I've introduced this bill every Congress, and I hope that with a GOP trifecta we can get it done to protect the Supreme Court from being used as a tool in political fights. The Supreme Court is an essential part of America's checks and balances. It must not be abused.

BIG News
My bill, the Wounded Knee Massacre Memorial and Sacred Site Act passed the House. This is a big deal. More than 10,000 bills are introduced each Congress, and only a few hundred receive a vote on the House floor. This is an incredible accomplishment. My bill passed with unanimous support.

I'm grateful for the help of the Oglala Sioux Tribe and Cheyenne River Sioux Tribe to craft this legislation. The bill would preserve a section of the land where hundreds of Lakota Indians were massacred by the U.S. Army. America isn't perfect, and I'll admit we've made some mistakes. The Wounded Knee bill seeks to right one of those wrongs by protecting the sanctity of this land to remember the lives lost.

I'm hopeful the Senate will consider this legislation soon.

It was a wrestling weekend for me as I went down to Elk Point for the Dak 12 conference tourney on Saturday with both the girls and the boys and they both won the team championship. The boys had a good battle with West Central as they led for a round or two but during the semis Canton took the lead and WC couldn't catch up as we won some big head-to-head matches in the finals to win 240-207. We fought hard and with a full team except for 2 weights with one of them sick so we are close to going full blast. It was good to have Aiden Schrepp and Conner Giedd back after some injuries and a couple back from illnesses so we are getting ready for the stretch run. We had 7 champions Saturday and more placewinners so it was a great day for C-Hawk wrestling and the girls were wrestling in the other gym and they brought more girls than all the other teams combined so they won by a huge amount with multiple champions so Canton cleaned up in the conference tournament Saturday. There is still more business to take care of before we head to Regions on February 22nd in McCook Central. The girls Regions will also be in MCM on February 20th on a Thursday then we all head to state in Rapid City for the 3 day tourney on Thursday, Friday and Saturday the 27, 28 and March 1.

The basketball teams have been busy with 3 games last week and with more this week as the boys and girls both head to Tri Valley this week on Tuesday then host a game at home Thursday then the boys play in Madison on Saturday for the Dak 12 tourney so check you school schedule then next Tuesday SF Christian comes to town and they are both ranked right on top of the state list and we have better be ready to play as tough as we can and keep playing that way the entire game. Good luck to both the teams and keep fighting and good things will happen.

Well we are all set in the superbowl as the Eagles and the Chiefs will play in a couple weeks and as you know I am a 49ers fan and I don't care at all who wins this game but since the Chiefs beat us the last 2 times we were in it then I have to go with the Eagles unless there is a way they can both lose. It should be a good game and since I won't care it makes it even better then next year we will be back in it and then I can be nervous again. Next week I will have my prediction that probably won't be close but that's ok because if you are using my prediction then you have a problem and just keep your money in your pocket.

Letter to Editor

I watched well over a hundred years of dreams and memories, pride and hard work disappear yesterday. They hauled it right by my place in dumpsters. Of course they were “just doing their job.” I’ve heard that so many times in the last year and a half, I have come to realize it must be a new term for an old concept. The concept of “I’ll do anything for a buck”. In my day, we had a different term for that. It had something to do with the world’s oldest profession.

Another thing I have seen a lot of lately is people who don’t do their job. They know what’s right and what’s wrong, but they won’t stand up and say so. I guess “go a long and get along” is more important nowadays than building a reputation for honesty, transparency, and integrity.

Doesn’t the fact that this prison will cost double or more than other proposed prisons around the country make you wonder about the transparency and integrity of the bid letting process? Or if there even was one?

Alfred and Ethilda Haug started their career together on that farm around 100 years ago, as Alfred grew up there. Then, they gave Earl and Sylvia Helgeson the opportunity to farm and raise their family there. When Earl retired, JoAnn and I, in turn, were given that chance. It was no piece of cake because pride in the farm ran deep and expectations were so high. It wasn’t easy to see it disrespected that way. But the disrespect for the farm, the Beaver Creek Community, and the people who live there started over a year and a half ago, so we have come to expect it. The whole county has.

But the farmstead and buildings, though they may be the most visible symbol of a farm, and hold many memories for many people, they are not the farm. Houses and structures get old and sometimes obsolete and need to be replaced or repurposed.

It is the land and its historical purpose, and the care and intent of previous generations that are the farm, and must be respected. As long as the citizens of a community, a county, or a state, have control it will be, and we will prosper. Change may happen but it will be timely and for the better.

That control and those property rights are what we are in jeopardy of losing lately. Outside interests and even some local people and entities want to take those property rights away from us so they can tell us what we must do on our own property, purely for their personal gain. An indication of this is the fact that one of Summit Carbon Solutions attorney’s is quoted on the news yesterday saying, “They [Summit] are here in South Dakota to save our family farms. Our future is completely dependent on them and if they can’t have eminent domain against our will, we will become a thing of the past”. Well, South Dakota citizens soundly defeated their proposed legislation by a huge two-thirds to one-third margin, last fall. We are not buying that load of crap.

The people in our government are no smarter, no better educated, and no more experienced than you or I, and sometimes exhibit less good sense than it takes to get through an ordinary day. Please stand up and voice your opinions to right these wrongs.

Legislative Committees Consider Open Records, Open Meetings Bills

By Dana Hess

For the S.D. NewMedia Association PIERRE — Legislation concerning open records and open meetings was a recurring topic this week in the South Dakota Legislature. A rundown of that activity includes:

Senate Bill 9—Opening officials’ calendars to the public

On Wednesday, legislators on the Senate State Affairs Committee claimed to be all for more public transparency as they sent SB 9 to the 41st day of the session, a method of disposing of legislation.

The bill, sponsored by Sen. Michael Rohl, R-Aberdeen, sought to open to public view the calendars and appointment logs of officials holding statewide office. That includes the governor, lieutenant governor and constitutional officers.

Rohl noted that states across the country offer public access to elected officials’ calendars. Under South Dakota’s current law, those items can be held from public view.

“Currently statewide elected officials are collecting six-figure salaries with very little accountability to the public,” Rohl said. SB 9 is “providing accountability for public officials to the citizens they represent.”

Testifying in opposition to the bill was Jason Ketterling, assistant superintendent of the South Dakota Highway Patrol, who raised a number of concerns.

“Releasing an official’s schedule could lead to misinterpretation and unfounded claims of favoritism, conflicts of interest and misuse of time,” Ketterling said. Citing the bill as creating a “significant administrative burden,” he also said it could compromise the safety of the elected official.

Also speaking against the bill was one of the elected officials it would affect, Brock Greenfield, commissioner of school and public lands. Greenfield asked if he would have to log the times he has been flagged down in the hall by constituents or the times he has been stopped in the restroom to discuss leasing rights.

“My time can be a lot better spent actually working for the people of South Dakota than trying to recap on my Outlook calendar every meeting I have,” Greenfield said.

Elected officials should not be afraid of public scrutiny, Rohl said. “How can you be accountable to somebody if they don’t even know if you’re showing up for work?” Rohl asked.

“I love transparency,” said Sen. Chris Karr, after making a motion to send SB 9 to the 41st day. Karr said the legislation would incentivize elected officials not to keep a calendar or appointment log.

The motion to kill the legislation was approved by the committee on a 7-2 vote.

On Thursday in the Senate, Rohl was supported by enough senators to bring his failed legislation to the Senate floor. The procedure, which calls for support by one-third of the Senate, is called a “smoke out.” SB 9 will be considered on Friday’s Senate agenda.

Senate Bill 10 — Opening a governor’s records sooner

Rohl had better luck in committee with SB 10, a bill that could open the records of a governor or lieutenant governor after five years. Currently those records are opened after 10 years or upon the death of the official, whichever transpires last.

Rohl said that passage of the bill would be a faster way to get information to the public about a governor’s time in office. No one spoke in opposition to the bill. It was approved unanimously by the committee.

Thursday the full Senate unanimously approved of SB 10.

Senate Bill 74 — Requiring a review of open meetings laws

At the same time the Senate State Affairs Committee was deciding the fate of open records laws, the Senate Local Government Committee was endorsing SB 74. That legislation would require state and local government boards to review the open meetings laws once a year.

Sen. Tim Reed, R-Brookings, said most violations of the open meetings laws are inadvertent. “This bill promotes transparency and helps protect public officials by requiring annual review of open meetings guidelines provided by the attorney general,” Reed said.

The attorney general’s office publishes a brochure outlining the opening meetings laws. The brochure is also available on the attorney general’s website.

David Bordewyk, executive director of the South Dakota NewsMedia Association, noted that in the past 20 years the South Dakota Open Meetings Commission has heard more than 70 complaints alleging violations of the law. In many of the cases where a violation was determined, it was because of a lack of understanding of the laws, Bordewyk said.

A yearly review would help keep those violations from happening, Bordewyk said. “This would be especially helpful given the natural turnover of boards due to elections or other means.”

In addition to reviewing the laws once each year, SB 74 also requires boards and commissions to make note of that review in their meeting minutes.

Also speaking in favor of the bill were representatives from the South Dakota Municipal League, South Dakota Association of County Commissioners and the attorney general’s office. No one spoke in opposition to the bill. It was approved unanimously by the committee and placed on the Senate’s consent calendar. Bills on the consent calendar are not usually subject to further debate.

HB 1059 — Clarifying how teleconferences are used in open meetings

On Thursday, the House Local Government Committee approved HB 1059 which clarifies the role of electronic communications in the open meetings laws. Those laws generally forbid a quorum of an elected board from meeting away from public scrutiny.

HB 1059 states that electronic communications like e-mail or text messaging are subject to the open meetings laws if all members of a publicly elected board or commission are included on the message and respond to carry on a discussion.

Rep. Matt Roby, R-Watertown, a former city attorney, asked if an email sent to all council members constituted a public meeting. According to Bordewyk, from the NewsMedia Association, an electronic communication that includes an entire board or council is allowed as long as it doesn’t lead to a discussion among the members. That discussion would constitute a violation of the open meetings law.

Speaking in favor of the legislation was Sara Rankin, executive director of the Municipal League. “This could clarify a really murky area of our open meetings law,” Rankin said.

Also speaking in favor of the bill was Kellen Willert, a Belle Fourche attorney familiar with the open meetings laws. Willert characterized HB 1059 as a clean-up bill clarifying that the use of electronic messaging by elected officials can have implications for the open meetings laws.

The committee approved the bill on a 12-1 vote. It now goes to the House floor.

Writers and Writing

The Waters a novel of healing and redemption

Every once in a great while, a novel comes along that draws you into a different world you don’t want to leave.

That’s the case of The Waters by Bonnie Jo Campbell. Campbell’s deftly woven Michigan backcountry saga of a family of women who are natural healers carries us to a time and a place where nearly anything is possible.

Hermine “Herself” Zook is the daughter of Baba Rose, also a healer. Herself raised her three daughters in Rose Cottage, situated on an island accessible only by the bridge that can only be lowered on the island side, virtually and symbolically limiting access to men whom the women seem as destructive and incapable of understanding Herself’s healing arts.

Herself’s daughters all take on healing roles in one way or another — Prim, an attorney who aggressively defends indigent clients; Molly, a nurse practitioner who has chosen modern medicine over her mother’s herbal remedies; and Rose Thorn, who “was able to ease an endemic self-loathing” and whose beauty is both a blessing and a curse.

Much of the story is told through the eyes of Rose Thorn’s daughter Dorothy, more commonly known as Donkey, a mathematically brilliant home-schooled child who reaches nearly six feet at age 11.

While Herself dedicates herself to healing, her healing arts are the subject of ire of some of the men in the surrounding town of Whiteheart, with the exception of Titus Clay, who loves Rose Thorn with all his heart, and with the hearty endorsement of the rest of Whiteheart.

However, insidious forces threaten Herself and her daughters and their way of life. Who is Prim’s real father? Who is Donkey’s real father? The answers to those questions would be spoilers, so let’s leave it at that.

In the end, the men of Whiteheart find redemption in a fashion when they come to the island to help Rose Thorn with the birth of her second daughter, named Rose Moon by Donkey. And while Titus is tragically separated from Rose Thorn by his untimely match with Lorena, in the end he also finds redemption in a ritual snake dance when he becomes one with the island and the woman who have inhabited it.

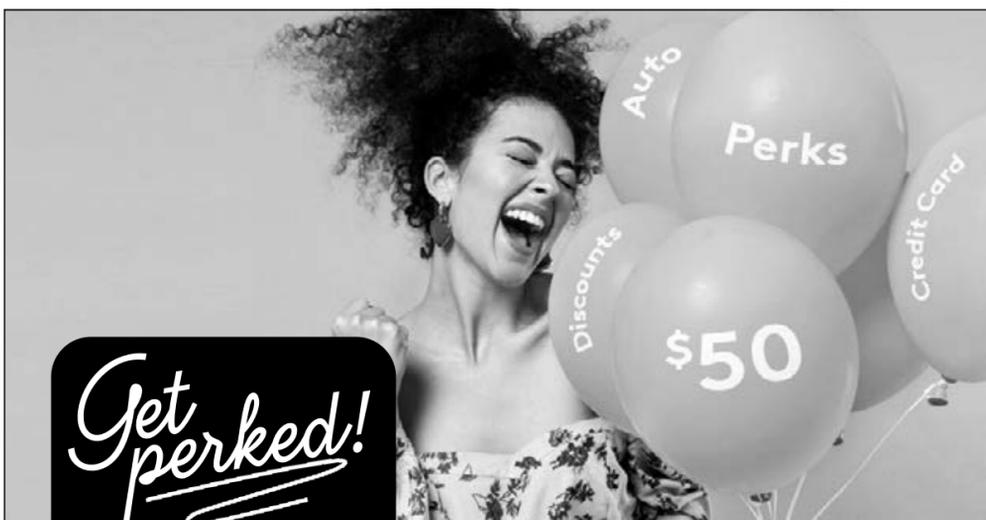

This is a meticulously researched novel, and impossible to put down. (Michael Tidemann writes from Estherville, Iowa. His Website is michaeltidemann.my.canva.site.)
